Environmental Council Named ...

Exon Tells Unit: 'Act Reasonably'

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Gov. J. James Exon Tuesday urged the newly appointed 16-member state environmental control council to "move rapidly ... but reasonably ... to start cleaning up our air and water."

Exon announced his selection of council members at a news conference and named himself as acting director of the new Department of Environmental Control.

T. A. Filipi, state environmental health services chief, will serve as Exon's agent.

The council later will submit to the governor "a list of names" from which he must choose the permanent director.

Up To Council

But, under terms of the 1971 law which establishes the new department, it will be the council itself which establishes standards, rules and regulations to control pollution.

"I hope they will not create rules and regulations which, in a short time, would close up feedlots or other industries" which may be in violation of pollution standards, Exon told newsmen.

"Polluters should be given a reasonable amount of time to clean up the pollution."

Exon Restates Hold-The-Line Tax Intentions

Gov. J. James Exon Tuesday reiterated his pledge to hold 1972-73 fiscal year budget recommendations within the limits of 1972 state tax rates.

Exon promised during his 1970 gubernatorial election campaign to attempt to hold tax rates for the first biennium of his administration at 2½% sales and 13½% personal income.

The governor has already submitted to the Legislature a biennial budget recommendation holding to those limits.

Exon has now begun the process of detailing the second year figures in his 1971-73 budget proposal.

The tax rates for 1972 will be established later this year.

The income tax rate may go to 14% rather than 13% as a result of legislative enactment of a bill boosting state aid to counties, Exon noted. That measure was passed over the governor's veto.

Tenure Limit

University of Nebraska Chancellor D. B. Varner Tuesday proposed to a 36-member "university governance" study committee that professional tenure be limited to specific terms, subject to review by "a panel of peers."

(See story on Page 10)

"If we are really going to get this off the ground, we must start from a sane and sensible base."

Wanted Stronger Bill

Exon noted that he "wanted a little stronger" bill enacted by the 1971 Legislature, and he will consult with council members and state senators to see what changes might be in order for consideration by the 1972 session.

Exon said he would prefer that the director of the new department be responsible to him, rather than to the council.

"I don't shirk the responsibility to enforce this law," the governor declared.

One possible change he may recommend would be to allow the council to establish standards which are more strict than federal requirements, Exon said.

Major Contention

The major bone of contention during consideration of environmental protection legislation in the 1971 session was whether the council would be handed executive, rather than advisory, authority.

Under the new law, the council has executive authority. The department director assumes an administrative role.

Eight of the council members come from agriculture or industry, as directed by law. Two represent municipalities, one speaks for the counties and another comes from the ranks of labor.

Broad Range

Other members include a physician, an engineer, a spokesman for conservation and one representative of the public at large.

That designation requirement "smacks of overprotection," Exon said, but he was able to find "people really concerned about the problems of air and water pollution."

Exon hailed the new law as an historic enactment, the first "meaningful" step toward pollution control in the state.

Named as council members, subject to legislative confirmation:

—Larry Price, Lincoln, chairman of the board of Kings Food Host, representing the food products industry.
—Lewis Harris, Lincoln, president of Harris Laboratories, conservation.
—Robert Cox, Genard, an automobile dealer, representing the automotive or petroleum industry.
—John A. Harris, McCook, president of Harris Serum and Supply, Inc., chemical industry.
—Ed Bailey, Omaha, president of Union Pacific, heavy industry.
—Dr. Lynn Thompson, Blair, former state health director, now a member of the volunteer facilities for the College of Medicine, physician.
—Leonard Schaefer, Omaha, business manager for the Laborers Union, representing labor.
—Theodore Reeves, Central City, former state senator, member of the Water Pollution Control Council, livestock industry.
—Mrs. Betty Abbott, Omaha, member of the city council, municipal government.
—Richard Dugdale, Omaha, member of Omaha Public Power District board of directors, power generating industry.
—Lowell Shaffer, Willow Island, agricultural crop production.
—Eugene O'Neill, South Sioux City, agricultural processing industry.
—Paul Harn, Norfolk, city administrator, member Water Pollution Control Council, municipal government.
—Louis Rha, Omaha, Sarpy County commissioner, county government.
—Margaret Sutherland, Lincoln, member Water Pollution Control Council, public at large.
—George Hanna Jr., Lincoln, University of Nebraska civil engineering chairman, professional engineer.

House OKs Welfare Reform, Social Security Liberalization

Washington (P) — The House passed Tuesday a massive bill to establish a new federal welfare system with a family income floor and to liberalize Social Security benefits and provisions. The final vote was 288 to 132.

The victory was shared by President Nixon, who called the measure "the most important social legislation in 35 years," and by Democratic leaders who worked hard to overcome opposition uniting some conservatives and liberals.

The key vote, 234 to 187, defeated a motion to strike out the welfare section. This would set up federal standards and administration and fund from the U.S. Treasury the assured family support. It would also provide federal supplements to the income of the working poor, adding some 10 million to those eligible for some degree of welfare aid.

On To Senate

The bill now goes to the Senate, where a similar welfare plan died last year. The outlook was reported somewhat brighter, but there appeared no chance of final action at least until near the end of 1971.

Nixon's appeal, in a letter to Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla., reached the House soon after a dissenting member of the Ways and Means Committee, Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., called for striking the provision for a $2,400 family income floor from the bill.

Relatively noncontroversial, the Social Security provisions include a 5% benefit increase effective in a year, higher payments for widows and men retiring early, more leeway for retirees to earn money without benefit reductions, Medicare for the disabled and other liberalizations.

The bill would provide also for a steep increase in payroll taxes — 86¢ at the maximum income level in six years — and more if a cost-of-living escalator clause takes effect.

Next year's increase would be $145.20 for those earning $10,200 or more.

The fight has centered on the proposal for scrapping the present state-federal welfare system in favor of a new, largely federal plan. The government would finance the family income floor, leaving the states to supplement it at their own expense if they chose.

The plan would extend welfare coverage to the "working poor" — families with a breadwinner but insufficient income. To encourage recipients to work, part of their earnings would be disregarded in deciding welfare eligibility, so that a four-person family could receive some supplement unless its total income reached $4,140.

Registration

All able-bodied adult recipients, including mothers of all but very young children, would be required to register for job-training and assignment. Day-care facilities would be developed.

The cost to the federal government was estimated at $5.5 billion, with the states saving $1.6 billion.

But Ways and Means Committee Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., told the House that because of the job incentives the new system within five years would cost less than "the present welfare mess."

Water Near ADM High In COD And Grease

... STATE OFFICIAL REPORTS ON TESTS OF SAMPLES

The standards say that no residue attributable to waste water or visible films of oil or globules of grease shall be present in the waters.

Still Pretty High

He said water samples were also taken at the point where the roadside ditch discharges water into Stevens Creek. The content, Langemeier said, "was still pretty high and would exceed the standards."

"There was no grease spotted in Stevens Creek" at the time samples were taken, he said.

Langemeier said he is waiting for additional test results of the samples.

To Determine Compliance

He said the staff members of the state agency would be meeting next week to evaluate the data to "determine for compliance with water quality standards and other state statutes."

One of the matters to be discussed, Langemeier said, is whether the roadside ditch would be classified as and falling within the scope of the state water quality standards.

Langemeier said that if it is determined that ADM is in violation of state statutes, the matter of what action should be taken will also be discussed.

Action Possibilities

Action could range from a letter to notify the soybean refinery that it is in violation and needs to take corrective action to formal enforcement action, he said.

A spokesman for ADM said there would be no comment on the alleged contamination of waters from the plant until Wednesday.

Any comment would have to come from James Wheeler, of ADM's Decatur, Ill., office, who was reported to be enroute to Lincoln Tuesday for a Wednesday meeting with local ADM officials, it was explained.

Local Policemen Nix LPOA 78-56

The Lincoln Police Officers Association (LPOA) was defeated Tuesday in its attempt to become officers' official bargaining agent with the city by a vote of 78 to 56.

Douglas Marti, attorney for the LPOA said he was "definitely surprised" by the margin by which the proposal was defeated and that as a result of the election "the police department as represented by Police Chief Joe Carroll will continue to represent the police officers before the city council."

Marti said that he had received 37 signed authorization cards from eligible members of the department but that 31 had apparently changed their minds.

Chief Carroll told The Star he was "very pleased" with the results of the election for two reasons.

"First, while I believe in unions in industry I don't think they belong in police departments."

"And second, I strongly feel that we in the administration of the Lincoln Police Department can do much more for the good of the department than the association can do."

Chou Says U.S. Screen Around Taiwan Obstacle

The New York Times

By SEYMOUR TOPPING

Peking — Premier Chou En-lai said that the security screen the United States had erected around the island of Taiwan, now ruled by the government of Chiang Kai-shek, was a key obstacle to the establishment of diplomatic ties with the United States.

The Chinese leader, urging settlement of the Taiwan issue, said no vengeful action would be taken against the people of Taiwan if the island yielded to Peking's control.

The 73-year-old premier made his remarks at a small dinner in the Great Hall of the People on Tiananmen Square given for William Attwood, publisher of the Wall Street Journal; Seymour Topping, assistant managing editor of the New York Times, and their wives.

In the past, Chinese Communist leaders have declined to discuss the future of the inhabitants of Taiwan in the event of its takeover by Peking, saying that it was purely an internal question for China to decide. Some observers had warned that there might be reprisals against some 12 million Taiwanese and upward of two million mainlanders who fled there in 1949 and who are in political control of Taiwan.

In response to questions at the 2½-hour dinner Monday night, Chou said the economic well-being of the people on Taiwan would improve under Peking's control since "they would receive the same income and salaries but without paying income tax." There is no personal income tax in mainland China.

The premier added that if there were unemployed persons on the island who had originally come from the mainland, they "could go back to their home provinces and they will not be discriminated against. If Taiwan returns to the motherland then its people would be making a contribution to the motherland for which we should give them a reward. So far from exacting revenge on them we will reward them," Chou said.

In what seemed to be an allusion to Peking's attitude toward the possible future of members of Chiang Kai-shek's government, Chou recalled that high-ranking officers of the defeated Chinese Nationalist armies had been living in Peking since 1949 and "were well looked after." He also noted that Pu Yi, the deposed emperor of the Japanese puppet state of Manchukuo, had lived in freedom in Peking until his death three years ago.

"How Taiwan will be liberated is our internal affair," Chou said, adding that "it will not be all that difficult."

Chou said "the world will change" and it would be glorious if U.S. forces were withdrawn from Taiwan and the Taiwan Straits. The U.S. 7th Fleet conducts a token patrol of straits in respect for the 1955 security treaty arrangement with the Chinese Nationalist government guaranteeing the island against attack.

"Once this problem is solved, then all other problems can be solved," Chou said. "The Peoples Republic would then be able to establish diplomatic relations with the United States."

The premier did not insist on a declaration by the United States specifically recognizing Peking's sovereignty over Taiwan.

Jobless Rate To Fall?

St. Paul, Minn. (UPI) — Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson predicted that unemployment will drop this fall and reach 4½ to 5% by the middle of 1972.

A highlight of the three-day gathering will be consideration of a merger of synods in Wisconsin, Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Iowa and Nebraska into a regional synod. Minnesota, Wisconsin and North Dakota already have approved the merger.

The synod also is expected to take position on the controversial $10,000 allocation by the General Assembly's Council on Church and Race to the Angela Davis defense fund.

Holdrege Added To Train Stops On Amtrak Route

Washington (UPI) — Holdrege, Neb., a community of 5,000 in south central Nebraska, will become a stop on the Chicago and San Francisco passenger train route.

Rep. Dave Martin, R-Neb., said he was notified Tuesday Holdrege would be made a regular stop in both directions on the route beginning July 12.

Holdrege was one of three communities added to the line between Chicago and Denver.

An Amtrak official said the stops would add only 10 minutes to the Chicago-Denver leg of the schedule.

The other two are Kewanee, Ill., and Fort Morgan, Colo. Spokesman for Martin said Holdrege was added because the 30,000 population with a 50-mile radius was sufficient for a stop.

Rio de Janeiro — There are about 100,000 tribal Indians in Brazil, a number that has been stationary for several generations.

7 Federal Grants OK'd For Nebraska

Washington (UPI) — Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., late Tuesday announced a series of federal grants.

They included:

—Department of Housing and Urban Development, community development training program, $31,400. Nebraska State Economic Development Department, training of personnel at state, county and municipal government levels.

—Health, Education and Welfare head start, Lincoln Action Program, Lancaster County, 12 months, 25 full-day children, 160 part-day, $15,659.

—HEW, Research Food and Drug Administration, University of Nebraska at Lincoln, food processing, $22,715.

—HEW, Head Start, Plattsmouth community schools, two months, 60 children, $16,704.

—HEW, Head Start, Greater Omaha Community Action, Douglas County, year, 79 children full-day, 600 part-day, $44,170.

—HEW, Head Start, Hastings Public Schools, Adams County, nine months, 30 children part-day, $26,366.

—Economic opportunity, family planning, Platte Valley Community Action, Grand Island and including Hall, Hamilton and Merrick Counties, year, $35,393.

Mrs. Nelson, 28, Killed in Crash; Husband Injured

Holdrege — The Phelps County sheriff's office Tuesday identified the woman fatally injured in a one-car accident four miles north of Holdrege Monday night as Mrs. Barbara Nelson, 28, of Holdrege.

The sheriff's office said her husband, Keith E. Nelson, 29, was taken to Phelps County Memorial Hospital in Holdrege where he was listed in satisfactory condition with possible internal injuries Tuesday.

Investigating officers said the vehicle, driven by Nelson, was northbound on U.S. 183 when it went off the highway, into a ditch and hit a culvert.

Mrs. Nelson was on leave from the Phelps County Extension Service as a home economist.

Old Bones Inspected By NU Officials

Conservation Service, and Mrs. Quinn. Preliminary reports say the bones are from the bison family, but samples will be taken to a meeting in Crawford this weekend for a more definite inspection.

Beatrice Teachers' Dispute Continues

Beatrice (AP) — District Judge William R. Colwell of Pawnee City ordered the Beatrice School Board Tuesday to appoint a member to a fact finding team in the continuing dispute over teachers contracts.

Judge Colwell was sitting in the place of Judge William Rist, who disqualified himself from the case as a former member of the board of education.

Appointment of a fact finding committee is compulsory under the law when negotiations over teachers salaries become deadlocked.

Negotiators for the Beatrice Education Association and the school board reached an agreement on a salary schedule for the coming year but the membership rejected the proposal. The teachers originally asked a base of $7,200 and the committee agreed on $6,550. The proposal also called for a 5% increment for tenure and a 4% increment for qualifications.

Parole Board Frees Lincoln Wife Slayer

The State Pardon Board granted immediate paroles to a number of men and women Tuesday, including a Lincoln man convicted of killing his wife.

The action on the three followed decisions by the State Pardon Board last month to commute sentences to a term of years which would make them eligible for parole now.

Wesley O. Johnson, 60, was serving a life sentence on a second degree murder charge for the 1959 hammer-slaying of his wife, Eldora, in Lincoln.

The pardon unit dropped the term to 20-35 years to make him eligible for parole.

Harry Dean Tatreau, 29, of Omaha, was also paroled, after the pardon board commuted his 20-35 year prison sentence on a kidnapping charge to 14-35 years for parole purposes. The board was told he would be working in Lincoln.

The board also paroled Jose Torres, 39, formerly of Ogallala, to his family in Texas. The pardon board last month commuted his 29-year sentence for incest to 8-20 years for parole purposes.

VA Drug Treatment Center Due In Omaha

Washington (UPI) — The Veterans Administration announced Tuesday plans to open 27 new drug treatment centers, including one in Omaha, by the first of October, to help carry out President Nixon's campaign against addiction among GIs.

The VA said this will bring to 32 the specialized treatment centers which "will provide capacity for the annual care of an estimated 6,000 veteran addicts in addition to veterans already receiving drug treatment in a regular VA hospital setting."

VA Administrator Donald E. Johnson said in a news release that 14 additional centers will be opened by the end of July, with the other 13 to be in operation by about Oct. 1.

Johnson said the action was pursuant to the President's call on June 17 for "the immediate development and emplacement of VA drug rehabilitation centers which will permit both in-patient and out-patient care of addicts in a community setting."

Reps. Robert H. Steele, R-Conn., and Morgan F. Murphy, D-Ill., reported after a recent trip abroad to study the drug problem that 10 to 15% of American servicemen in Vietnam were addicted to heroin.

The first specialized VA drug treatment center was opened in the District of Columbia in October, and additional ones were set up in January in New York City, Houston, Battle Creek, Mich., and Sepulveda, Calif.

By the end of next month, centers will be operating in Baltimore; Boston; Buffalo and Syracuse, N.Y.; Salem, Va.; Miami; Oklahoma City; Minneapolis; Brecksville, Ohio; Chicago; Pittsburgh; Iowa City, Iowa; Palo Alto, Calif., and Salt Lake City.

The other centers will be at East Orange, N.J.; Philadelphia; Atlanta; New Orleans; St. Louis; Indianapolis; Vancouver; Brentwood, Calif.; Brooklyn, N.Y.; North Little Rock, Ark.; Omaha; Topeka, Kan., and Denver.

Lt. Gen. Robert G. Taber, who is heading the military's new effort to identify drug addicts, told a news conference Monday that the program will be "non-punitive and compassionate."

Taber estimated that 10% of servicemen in Vietnam were heroin users — about half of them "heavy" addicts.

Rural Letter Carriers Elect Bloomfield Man As President

Hastings (AP) — The 69th annual convention of the Nebraska Rural Letter Carriers Association and its auxiliary wound up Tuesday with election of officers for the coming year.

The convention considered but deferred action on a resolution calling for a merger with some existing postal union. The consensus was that action should wait until after the national convention to be held in Portland, Ore.

Orlin Wegner of Bloomfield was named president of the letter carriers succeeding Melvin Holtorf of Cedar Bluffs. Robert Hawley of Republican City was named vice president; Roy Lehman of Stapleton, secretary-treasurer; Harold Barnhart of Brock, legislative chairman, and Otis Reinmiller of Stapleton and Stanley Dolezel of Venango, members of the national committee.

Mrs. Reinmiller Renamed

The Auxiliary selected Mrs. Otis Reinmiller of Stapleton for a second term as president. Mrs. Edward Voboril of Dwight was named vice president. Mrs. LaVern Kohmetscher of Lawrence, secretary, and Mrs. Owen Wagner of Bloomfield, treasurer.

Mrs. Ed Oliva of Milligan and Mrs. Elton Bray of Bancroft were named committee members.

Potter Youth Is Charged In Fatal Accident

Sidney (AP) — A Potter teenager charged with motor vehicle homicide has been bound over to district court, Cheyenne County Atty. Don Tedesco said Tuesday.

He said Eusebio Montoya, 17, waived preliminary hearing Monday.

Tedesco said Montoya was the driver of a pickup truck which collided with a car driven by Navy Lt. Joseph Bosshardt June 5 on U.S. 30, just east of Potter in western Nebraska.

Bosshardt, son of Police Chief Harold Bosshardt of Bloomington, Ill., was killed in the crash.

If convicted, Montoya could face a maximum penalty of up to $500 fine and a prison sentence of one to 10 years, or both.

Small Twister Damages Trees, Lines, Garage

Broken Bow (AP) — What was believed to be a small twister lifted the roof off a garage about five miles northeast of Broken Bow Monday night and moved the garage about two to three feet, but no one was injured.

The incident occurred about 9 p.m. at the Jack Lambkammer farm. The family sat out the storm in a basement.

Some phone lines in the area were downed and there was some tree damage.

Lambkammer said a pickup truck and car in the garage were not damaged.

W. Bronnenberg Dies; Beatrice Director Of CD

Beatrice (AP) — William Bert Bronnenberg, 54, civil defense director for Beatrice, died Monday night a few minutes after appearing before the City Council.

Mr. Bronnenberg died of an apparent heart attack after leaving the council chambers.

He was appointed in June, 1963, and had recently been helping formulate a community shelter plan for the city and Cag County.

Mr. Bronnenberg had lived in Beatrice since 1961.

He is survived by his wife, Dortha; his mother, Mrs. Ruth Bronnenberg, and a brother, Donald, of Dallas, Tex.

Funeral services will be Thursday in Beatrice.

EVENTS

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

The mayor of Omaha has ordered time clocks installed in City Hall, so employees can punch in and out. Lincoln Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf isn't following suit. He gets to work in the morning early and stays until the day is over and says he thinks other city employees do the same thing.

He is that kind of individual and it is probably part of the reason he was re-elected this year. He tends to the business of mayor in a diligent fashion. His diligence will often make up for any lack of imagination but it is the latter which may have him in some hot water at the moment.

Currently, City Councilman F. Bob Sikyta is concerning himself with the matter of a new sanitary sewage treatment plant in Northeast Lincoln. Sikyta, we hope, is not hooked on the persecution syndrome that affects some residents of that area but the sewage treatment thing has such overtones.

Where the city is weak is in the fact that we have known about our sewer problems for too long and have done too little about them. From there on, Sikyta probably doesn't have much of a case.

He might be reminded, in fact, that in one so-called silk stocking precinct of Southeast Lincoln, if there is any such place in the city, he was third high in the recent balloting for City Council with a total vote of 192.

There is no argument with Sikyta's wanting all the information he can get on the sewage treatment problems of Lincoln but we do have to wonder about his successful delay in the reappointment of Utilities Director Lee Blocker. Blocker is the man in charge of treatment facilities but he doesn't set policy.

Policy is set by the mayor and City Council and if Lincoln has been derelict in its treatment responsibilities, the fault lies with the mayor and council. At this point, however, it is pretty hard to fault the city.

The city is proceeding with plans for construction of an addition to the Theresa Street sewage treatment plant. This is a $4.2 million improvement that will come ahead of an entirely new and separate plant somewhere farther northeast.

Sikyta's position gets to the question of priorities as between these two proposals. Lincoln might have acted more quickly in the past but what it is doing now seems to be the only avenue of action to take.

The city has been heavily pressured by the state to stop the dumping of sewage into Salt Creek, an action occasioned by the lack of adequate facilities at the Theresa Street plant. This year, the federal government held up on the payment of aid funds due the city for past work on Theresa until the city could show plans in the works for correction of the overload situation at Theresa.

Additionally, the new plant northeast would cost somewhere in the neighborhood of $15 to $12 million and the city has no such funds, even counting the 75 per cent financial assistance it might get from state and federal sources. We might have plunged ahead with such a program but again, part of the reason Schwartzkopf was re-elected was that the Lincoln mill levy has not skyrocketed.

There may well be disagreement as to how much time in treatment matters the city will "buy" as a result of improvements to the Theresa Street plant. It is said that the improvements will give the city about five years to get ready for a new plant northeast.

This may or may not be correct but who really knows? If a big development such as IBM would suddenly materialize in Northeast Lincoln, the demand for a new treatment plant could become urgent. Other developments in the Stevens Creek watershed could do the same thing.

But such developments, including IBM, are not anticipated at this moment. To our knowledge, there is no industrial development in Northeast Lincoln being held up as a result of the lack of adequate sewage treatment facilities.

Sikyta will need to come up with some pretty good new facts to sustain the suspicions he has planted in regard to current planning and procedure on the sewage treatment program. It just won't be enough to claim geographic discrimination

Health, Safety Act Slow In Fulfillment

WASHINGTON — Seidman has President Nixon been as gushy about a piece of legislation as he was when he signed the 1970 Occupational Safety and Health Act last December.

Before a glittering assembly of labor leaders, manufacturers, congressmen and civil servants, the President said the bill was perhaps "the most important" to pass in two years.

For the 55 million workers who would benefit from the bill, Nixon said, it is "probably one of the most important pieces of legislation . . . ever passed by Congress."

The President then walked out and promptly forgot his words. Six months have passed and virtually nothing has been done by the White House to put its provisions into action.

During this time, an estimated 900,000 workers have been disabled, 6,000 killed in industrial accidents, and 160,000 stricken with occupational diseases; of these last, 1,700 have died.

The duty to carry out the act was given by Congress to the Department of Labor and Health, Education, and Welfare.

Labor, at least, is getting organized to carry out its assigned role.

HEW, on the other hand, has been dragging its feet. In a private letter, another of the bill's authors, Sen. Harrison "Pete" Williams, D-N.J., charged Secretary Elliott Richardson for HEW's "seeming lack of interest."

One of the key parts of the bill calls for HEW to establish a National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health. "The effective date of the act, April 28, 1971, has come and gone," wrote Williams, and HEW has done nothing.

Richardson not only attempted to downgrade the institute by sidetracking it to Atlanta, but he also delayed five months before appointing a director. Under pressure, he also rescinded the transfer to Atlanta.

And it was not until we began probing the delays a few days ago that President Nixon, despite his passionate support for the worker safety bill in December, suddenly named the 15-man Workmen's Compensation Commission provided for in the act.

The seniority system has made it necessary to outfit Congress like an old men's home. To keep the old-timers going is the responsibility of Dr. Rutus Pearson, the Capitol physician, who has scattered strategic locations throughout the hallowed halls so he can revive those who falter. He requires his patients to carry wallet-sized cardiac charts with them at all times. But not even the doctor's magic can sustain all the old curmudgeons who, as they wear out, delegate their power to staff members. The older members of Congress, under the seniority system, usually exercise the most authority.

Thus their committee aides — unresponsive, indeed unknown to the people — often have authority over younger members who were elected by the people. Meanwhile, the U.S. Congress is the only major law-making body in the world that still chooses its leaders by seniority.

New Figure On The American Scene

Common Cause Growing

When John Gardner less than a year ago began organizing his Common Cause, a national citizens lobby dedicated to making "our political and governmental institutions more responsive to the needs of the nation and the will of its citizens," we were impressed by the need for such a "third force," but wondered, given the political realities, whether a loose collection of largely over-thirty, middle-of-the-readers would ever make it.

Many had doubts about the future of Common Cause, or at least its motives: the political right, which sees it as only a bit more legitimate than kids in the street or doves in the Senate and those at the opposite end of the spectrum, who view Common Cause as an establishmentarian office where movers and shakers of the left are not welcome.

For those who have not kept in contact, Common Cause is apparently alive and well, even a little prosperous and beginning to do something. Correspondent Saul Friedman reports that in the months since last August, its membership has reached 170,000. Nearly 1,000 dues payments of at least $15 each were arriving per day around the beginning of the year and they are still coming in at 1,000 per week. Expectations are that Common Cause will level off at about 250,000 dues-paying members, but that will still allow the organization to budget $3.75 million annually for its lobbying work.

As Friedman pointed out, Common Cause jumped into the successful battles for reforming congressional procedures, defeating the SST and passing the 18-year-old vote when the battles were almost over. But it is a new organization and there will be other battles to fight.

As Common Cause matures, the feeling develops in some quarters that it may become encumbered by its own bureaucracy and lose touch with its diverse membership, that it might become indistinguishable from the older lobbying groups it has sought to supplant, or perhaps may become a vehicle for someone's presidential hopes.

With Gardner at the helm, however, we can see it continuing to be the unique expression of many Americans who feel they have lost a voice in the political and governmental affairs of the nation.

Regulatory Role Abused

A House education and labor subcommittee report has demonstrated a serious lack of responsibility on the part of the Federal Bureau of Mines. It shows that the bureau totally ignored countless safety violations by the Finley Coal Co. in a mine at Hydes, Ky., where an explosion took the lives of 38 men last December.

The bureau investigation of the explosion, it was said, was a cover-up, a "pathetic attempt at mystifying what is tantamount to a gross and exceedingly negligent dereliction of responsibility."

The House indictment is a serious one because it attacks the very basis for the federal regulatory actions in all fields of business and commerce. The objective of regulatory agencies is to protect the public interest, not to further the cause of the industry that is supposed to be regulated.

ANTHONY LEWIS

Constitution Declares For Public Discussion; Nation's Newspapers Fulfill This Obligation

LONDON — The press is no more perfect than any other institution. Newspapers can be vulgar or silly or craven; they can cry "freedom of the press" when nothing is at stake but their desire to sensationalize for a profit.

But one need not romanticize the press to understand that the Constitution and history of the United States has given it a special function. That function is the real issue in the case of United States v. New York Times.

The American system of government places ultimate faith in the judgment of the public and its elected representatives. The president is not meant to rule; the framers hedged his great power about, in their conception, with legislative restraints. The Constitution commits even the gravest of foreign policy judgments, a declaration of war, to the popular assembly, Congress.

The assumption underlying the democratic faith is that Congress, and behind it the public, will have the information on which to base informed judgments. But unlike Parliament, Congress cannot directly question the head of the executive. Its ability to get the facts from his departmental subordinates is also limited; when they resist or evade, there is seldom any effective way to compel responsive answers. And the president's personal assistants are generally immune from questioning altogether — even when, as now, one is the principal adviser on a vital national policy.

It is in this informing role that history has cast the press in American democracy. And not only history but the Constitution: the First Amendment's protection of speech and press extends to literary and artistic matters, but its prime purpose was to safeguard freedom of political discussion.

It is no accident, therefore, that great issues in the United States are often framed in the press, when in Britain the forum would be Parliament. The responsibility given by the First Amendment is not always met, but sometimes the press does play the essential part in making possible informed consideration of some large question — a nomination to the Supreme Court, say, or the value of a supersonic transport.

All that is in the background of U.S. v. New York Times. The immediate context makes the issues even more compelling, for it demonstrates how presidential behavior has strained beyond belief the assumption of congressional access to information essential for decision on issues of war and peace.

In 1964, President Johnson suddenly asked Congress for a resolution allowing him to take "all necessary measures" against the communists in Vietnam. He did so on the basis of an alleged attack on American Navy vessels. He told members of Congress that passage of the resolution would prevent enlargement of the war.

We now know that the entire presidential argument was a tangled web of deceit. The circumstances of the American vessels' presence in the area were concealed, and the fact of any attack was at best doubtful. Far from preventing enlargement of the war, Johnson had ordered plans to enlarge it and was looking for

MARQUIS CHILDS

McNamara Remains Silent

WASHINGTON — Robert S. McNamara, who as secretary of defense authorized the compilation of records on the Vietnam war, is keeping silent as the controversy rages. Since becoming head of the World Bank in 1968, he has made no comment on any of the shattering events from the Cuban missile crisis through the escalation of the war that marked his seven years in the Pentagon.

The loyal aides who served him in the Pentagon, believing the record has been confused, distorted and sensationalized, have put together for this reporter their recollections of how it came about. It goes without saying they are prejudiced in favor of their former chief.

The best recollection is that some time in mid-1966 McNamara spoke to John T. McNaughton, then assistant secretary of defense for international affairs, about the need to assemble all the records. He pointed out that there was no system for saving and compiling such records in what, it is recalled, he spoke of as the vast paper factory of the Pentagon.

Short of such action, McNamara believed the records would be diffused and perhaps even lost. The Defense Department has an historian but he has virtually no staff and little chance to get on top of the mountain of material constantly accumulating. So McNaughton set in motion under Leslie Gelb, then head of policy planning in McNaughton's office, what was intended as basic source material for future historians.

Only once or twice after that did McNamara casually mention the study to McNaughton prior to the latter's death in a plane crash in 1967. The secretary of defense had never understood that a narrative would be written by anonymous authors whom McNamara now believes wrote their emotions and prejudices into the narrative. McNaughton had told him that the job would take perhaps three months and the work of six individuals. It took 36 months and 18 men before, on Jan. 14, 1969, 15 copies of the report were completed.

Prior to turning his copy over to the National Archives, McNamara lifted the lid of the box containing the 47 volumes and glanced at one or two. He did no more than that, believing that here was a record for the future that would make possible an objective history of American involvement in the Indochina war.

He has been deeply disturbed since The New York Times disclosures, according to aides who have talked with him, about the charge of deceit. He makes several points that, in the opinion of his former associates, refute this charge.

With each successive decision went fierce internal controversy. Many of the memoranda concern these controversies and were to be taken not in the sense of announced, final plans, but as advocacy from one quarter or another in the far-flung complex of civilian and military authority. Another consideration was the desire to prevent an emotional, flag-waving response to a war that all concerned continued to hope could be a limited war.

More important in the McNamara view is that many of the documents deal with contingency plans. In every military situation such plans are turned out by the gross to meet any of a thousand different situations. As an example his former aides cite the Cuban missile crisis.

McNamara rejected a military contingency plan for a Cuban invasion. Under his direction a substitute plan that he believed to be more effective and realistic was drawn up. But he vigorously opposed any invasion, against the virtually unanimous view of the top Pentagon military. Publication of the "Eyes Only" contingency plan with McNamara's imprimatur would have created the impression that the secretary of defense was advocating invasion.

McNamara never thought that the record would be brought out in sensational form. He had thought, according to his former associates, that historians would put the compilation together with a mess of material from the State Department, the CIA and other intelligence and military sources. Thus a balance would be struck to produce as nearly as possible a fair account of America's involvement in Indochina. Deeply distressed by the fierce controversy, he will nevertheless stay silent.

C. L. SULZBERGER

No Press Problem In Soviet Union

PONT SAINE MAXENCE, France — One blazing difference between free government and government by restraint comes in their contrasting views of the press. Authoritarian regimes insist on deciding themselves what is proper for the people to know.

Lenin wrote: "Just as the army cannot fight without arms, so the party cannot carry out its ideological mission without that efficient and powerful weapon, the press . . . we cannot put the press into unreliable hands."

There has never been a press problem in the Soviet Union. Lee Hills, when president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, observed several years ago: "Manipulation of the news is the Soviet way of manipulating people, and this manipulation of human beings is the biggest difference between communism and our system."

Free government accepts the principle of press freedom but seeks to insure that such freedom doesn't impinge upon national security. This has produced legal restrictions which never quite seem to work.

Articles 99 and 100 of the West German Penal Code ban publication of information deemed prejudicial to "the interest of the federal republic," a vague concept already successfully challenged by one magazine. The French Penal Code (Article 78) prohibits disclosure of "military information which has not been made public by the competent authority and whose disclosure is manifestly of a nature to prejudice national defense."

The French have been rather successful in making this stick and one consequence has been periodic complaints about government interference with the information media. The British Official Secrets Act (comprising three separate laws of 1911, 1920, and 1939) bans information "prejudicial to the safety or interests of the state," and publication or even retention of an official document by anyone who "has no right to retain it."

But the British have had trouble reconciling law and liberty. Long before the Secrets Legislation, William Howard Russell of the Times of London horrified the government when he wrote of the "incompetency, lethargy, aristocratic hauteur, official indifference, favor, routine, perverseness and stupidity," on the Crimean battlefield.

The concept of official secrets was grossly misused when the whole world knew the story of King Edward VIII's impending abdication but Englishmen had to glean what they could from foreign reports. This year the London Sunday Telegraph won an action brought against it by the government for publishing a classified report that manifestly should not have been classified. The British law is both too broad in its application and too feeble in its authority.

For its part, the United States tried twice (1798 and 1918) to legislate against security infringements as "sedition." The first short-lived effort banned "scandalous and malicious writing or writings against the government." The second, enacted under Wilson during World War I, aimed at socialists and pacifists — and also failed.

In 1788 James Madison warned against "gradual and silent encroachments" against liberties, including that of the press. Every president since Hoover — except Eisenhower — had sharp disputes with that institution. The Kennedy, Johnson and Nixon administrations sought in various ways to manage the news as requiring a Pentagon official "part of the arsenal of weaponry."

Once I asked Eisenhower whether he thought an official secrets act desirable and he indignantly rejected the concept, saying he would never muzzle the press. This might not necessarily be the case with a well drafted statute providing for impartial referees who could be consulted by private and public media but the implied dangers are frightening.

Certainly there is risk in the absence of some such machinery, as demonstrated during World War II when a newspaper disclosed that the U.S.A. had broken the Japanese naval code. But there is also risk in even contemplating legal blockage of leaks if such blockage can ever be used to accomplish "gradual and silent encroachments."

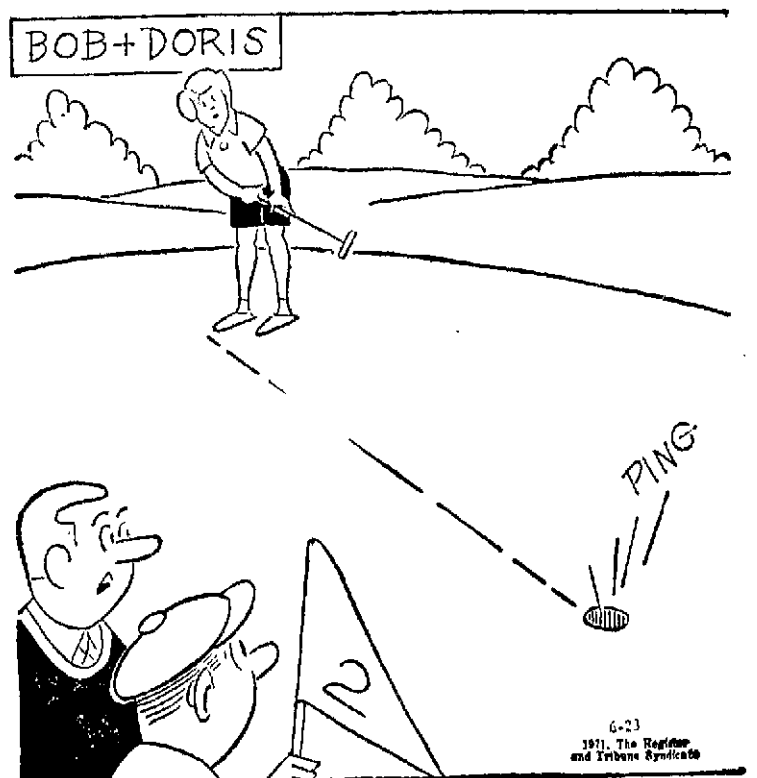

Moreover, it is ridiculous to consider steps against press publication of classified documents while government officials are permitted to rush into print with memoirs quoting secret papers. The spate of books following President Kennedy's death, to say nothing of Lyndon Johnson's forthcoming recollections, are notables cases.

Trunkloads of highly classified documents have been removed in recent years by American officials planning to write about them. It is ridiculous even to consider press violations of security when a free hand is allowed the officials who themselves make the policy of secrecy.

Goals, Policies Panel Okays Policies For Public Reaction

By TOM EKVAL
Star Staff Writer

The City-County Goals and Policies Committee Tuesday evening approved tentative goals and subgoals to be submitted to the public for reaction this summer in the areas of housing and residential areas, economic employment and development, commercial services and facilities and transportation.

The goals adopted mainly were ones recommended by the planning consultant for the goals and policies study with some refinement by the group to incorporate goals formulated independently by the committee earlier.

The committee will meet later in the fall to work on finalizing the goals and subgoals. Once the group finalizes the goals and subgoals it will then consider policies to implement the goals.

Another Meeting Set

A meeting is planned for Wednesday to finish developing the goals in those areas not covered Tuesday. A Thursday meeting will be held if necessary to complete the work.

Those areas still to be covered are community services and facilities, parks and recreation facilities, educational facilities, environment, urban development and implementation as well as additional subgoals in transportation on bicycles and pedestrians.

Most of the meeting Tuesday was spent on the area of housing with the majority of those present deciding that "an adequate and reasonable supply of adequate, decent, sanitary and esthetically appealing homes is paramount."

Housing For Poor

To accomplish this, members decided as subgoals that there be additional housing provided which would "meet the expressed needs of the lower socioeconomic groups . . . at a reasonable price" and that "all homes in the county meet the minimum standards housing code."

A motion that emergency and temporary housing be required was defeated by those present.

Less than 100 of the 400-plus members were present at the meeting and only 43 remained by the end of the meeting.

William Coibon, the planning consultant with the firm of Leo A. Daly, said some of the subgoals proposed by the committee were in fact policies which should not be considered now.

Others replied that although technically some subgoals in question may be policies, the problems are so important that public reaction is needed. An example cited was a proposed statement that the University of Nebraska undertake the responsibility to provide additional housing for single and married students.

Present To Public

The group decided to present the policy covering the university housing to the public this summer as a policy.

Another policy to be presented is to require the county to have a minimum housing code and that in every lease a minimum housing code be an implied part of the lease. If the house is in violation, the tenant would not be required to pay rent to the landlord but instead could pay the rent into escrow with the money to be used to make the necessary repairs.

Goals adopted are as follows:

Housing — Maximize the opportunities to ensure an adequate and reasonable supply of adequate, decent, sanitary and esthetically appealing housing as well as a choice of housing types and residential locations, consistent with the economic and social requirements of all segments of the population.

Economic development and employment — Maximize employment opportunities for all segments of the population to ensure personal fulfillment and continued economic growth and stability in Lancaster County.

Commercial services and facilities — Provide a wide range of well-planned and controlled commercial services which would be easily accessible to all segments of the county population.

Transportation — Maximize the opportunities for a comprehensive, balanced and integrated transportation system to ensure mobility for all segments of the population and continued social and economic well-being of the area and which will best effectuate the land use plan.

Other subgoals for housing included emphasis on providing adequate off-street parking and open space per capita and encouragement of new housing types, neighborhoods to be "somewhat heterogeneous," provision of new housing units recognizing strong desire for single family living and residential environments free from safety hazards and noise associated with through traffic movements.

Economic development subgoals keyed on providing a balance of different types of employment and that any further economic development be accomplished within the general high standards for environmental quality. Downtown Lincoln should also continue to expand as the dominant office employment center areas for employment in other industries to be provided in a number of locations convenient throughout the county to existing subgoals in regard to commercial services include downtown Lincoln to remain as the dominant multi-use center with regional retail to be divided between the downtown, Gateway Shopping Center and additional centers to be developed as justified by sufficient market expansion. Shopping areas should have a high standard of physical design.

On transportation subgoals include "development of an adequate public transit system to meet the mobility requirements of many residents of Lancaster County" to the maximum extent possible, improvement of all components of the regional transportation system and development of a street system to provide for convenient and safe vehicular traffic using and proposed residential areas.

Mayor Vetoes Change In Zoning On West O

Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf Tuesday announced his veto of a City Council approved ordinance which would rezone land at West O and Cushman Road for highway commercial use.

The property, located a mile west of the West O Drive-In Theater, is presently zoned AA Rural and Public Use.

Schwartzkopf said he disapproves of the rezoning requested by Gerald Lewis on the grounds that "this commercial zoning would encourage further strip zoning along West O St., causing traffic movement problems as well as no service with city utilities."

The Council at first turned down the rezoning, but, at the urging of City Councilman Meile Hale, agreed to reconsider and approve the request.

The Planning Commission had recommended denial on an unanimous vote.

Schwartzkopf said the city should be concerned about the appearance of West O St. since it is a principal route into Lincoln.

"This change of zone could help encourage similar requests and thus develop into a highway similar to Cornhusker Hwy," he contended.

Development of the land would also require private water and sewer systems, which he said is "contrary to good urban development."

Rites Wednesday For R. R. McGee, Ex-School Head

Columbus (UPI) — Funeral services for R. R. McGee, 88, are scheduled for 10 a.m. Wednesday morning at the First United Methodist Church here.

Mr. McGee served as superintendent of Columbus schools for 22 years. He was a former president of the Nebraska Education Association.

Burial services will be held in Orleans, Neb.

Schwartzkopf Issues Praise For Utilities Chief Blocker

Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf Tuesday said he believes Public Utilities Director Lee Blocker is "a capable professional, dedicated and loyal" employee and should be approved by the City Council next Monday.

Schwartzkopf made the comment in a prepared statement following a council decision Monday to hold up Blocker's appointment for a week.

The delay had been requested by freshman Councilman Bob Sikyta, who said he needed more time to evaluate the appointment. Sikyta said he had not been satisfied with answers to questions he had asked regarding the expansion of the Theresa St. sewage treatment plant and a new plant in northeast Lincoln.

He said he had received conflicting information from different persons in regard to the treatment subject and wanted a week to gather complete details.

Schwartzkopf said he felt the council has had ample time to evaluate the directors and to get answers to any questions regarding any subjects, including sewage treatment.

"A city director should be selected on total ability and sound judgment and not whether he gives concurring answers to the council," the mayor stated.

His "Thing" is Fussing About a LOT of Little Things!

It has always been Hinky Dinky's policy to maintain our stores in the cleanest possible manner. Hinky Dinky now takes the lead again by being the first supermarket chain in this area to have our own Sanitation Inspection "Department." Harold Murray, Director of Sanitation for Hinky Dinky, heads a staff who work round-the-clock making certain Hinky Dinky stores are absolutely the cleanest supermarkets in town! His staff uses the very latest of scientific know-how for cleanliness in handling foods. You are welcome to visit "behind the scenes" at Hinky Dinky. Inspect the work areas in our meat, produce, bakery, or deli departments at ANY TIME.

You'll see that hundreds of "little" things are being done by Mr. Murray and his assistants to assure you the most wholesome, fresh food possible in every Hinky Dinky supermarket. Here are just a few examples:

Our meat department has a scheduled cleaning and sanitizing routine. All cutting and wrapping equipment in Hinky Dinky meat departments are cleaned and sanitized EVERY FOUR HOURS.

All meat hand tools at Hinky Dinky are sanitized between each work assignment.

Temperatures in all display cases are read and recorded twice daily to assure proper refrigeration at all times.

All employees use only antiseptic and soap to "wash up." (It's the same antiseptic hand soap doctors use in pre-surgery scrub.)

And the list of hundreds of other "little things" goes on and on! Another Happy Difference at Hinky Dinky — the supermarkets that care about you — and your good health!

Police Chiefs Usually Want More Men, Money, Equipment

By IVAN TRAVNICEK
Star Staff Writer

The first thought a police chief has when he surveys his responsibilities is to want more men, more money, more sophisticated equipment and better laws and ordinances.

Maj. Elmer P. Schroeder of the Nebraska State Patrol said Tuesday morning at a police convention.

Schroeder, a 25-year member of the patrol in general administration, spoke on training and education before the convention of the State and Provincial Division of the North Central Regional Conference of the International Association of Chiefs of Police (IACP).

Schroeder told 80 law enforcement officials from 13 states and two Canadian provinces that all police training deals with the quality of public service and with the competence and respectability of officers providing the service.

"Professional Competence"

"One of the most effective means" of achieving more manpower, more and better equipment, a better conviction rate and better legislation is to "prove the professional competence of current personnel," and by the wisest use of equipment already available through police training and education, Schroeder said.

He said training and education are "vital for the success of the police administrator and for the success of every member of the department — from the second in command to the newest recruit.

Schroeder said there was some question, however, of the "automatic value" of the mere existence of an associate or bachelor's degree without prior police learning experiences, nor should it "provide an automatic bypass of pre-induction training, probationary service or on-the-job experiences."

Training and education must be related to the service to be performed, Schroeder said, and correlated with what he called the "five D's":

—Discipline. Training which corrects, molds, strengthens and perfects orderly conduct; to train in self control or obedience to given standards.

—Dimension. Knowledge which reflects the quality and extension, the magnitude, the scope, the importance and thoroughness of preparation for the requirements of the job.

—Dignity. Provide for elevation of character, intrinsic worth, and assure a quality of being esteemed while providing respect, honor, nobleness of purpose and a measure of stateliness.

—Direction. Educate to identify the line of course on which the department is moving or is aimed to move, based on a direct course of thought and action.

—Devotion. Provide assurance for a state or quality of zealous attachment, dedication, fidelity, careful observance of duty or discharge of obligation.

Lt. John Little of the Missouri State Patrol told the officers that "many things (said) about police were not complimentary" in a federal study published in 1967.

Little said that since then a great number of colleges have started courses in police work and more police have started attending. Police have the responsibility to help colleges "develop a curriculum that will help us," he said.

"Continuous Training"

Commissioner Eric H. Silk of the Ontario Provincial Police said "continuous training is essential in a modern police force," and he said he was especially interested in the problems of deployed forces because of the distances involved in getting to college classes and the distance recruits must be sent for basic training.

Silk said training of law enforcement officials breaks down into three divisions: basic, continuing in-service training and special courses covering intelligence, investigation, scientific developments and other related areas.

The IACP is represented in 33 counties and the State and Provincial Division is a part of the North Central Regional Conference, said Ron Sostkowski, a management consultant with the IACP staff in Washington, D.C.

Wednesday's activities will include reports on traffic service, highway safety and federal, state and local intergovernmental relations.

The convention will end on Thursday with discussion by the Public Safety Aviation Institute and the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration and talks on protection of government officials and property.

Omaha Requests Rehearing On School Aid

By United Press International
The Omaha School District made another bid Tuesday to try and recover $1.4 million in state aid it contends was shortchanged for the 1968-69 school year.

The action came in the filing by the district of a motion for rehearing on the State Supreme Court's June 4 decision which said the district is not entitled to the money.

The June decision came about after the State Board of Education requested, and was granted, a rehearing on a high court decision handed down last December.

That decision, reversed by the June ruling, ordered the district court to have the board and the State Education Department refigure the district's share of state aid for the year and grant payment of the additional $1.4 million.

The district in its original suit said under the formula used in figuring each school's share of state aid, it was entitled to receive $5,661,999 from the $25 million the Legislature appropriated for distribution among Nebraska public schools.

But the Department of Education had refigured the district's share and decided it should receive only $4,496,885. The district appealed to the court contending the lower amount would work a "hardship" on the school system.

In its June decision, the high court said while Omaha would suffer from the loss of money, so would some 50 other districts which had requested more money, but were denied, because of the $25 million limit set by the Legislature.

In its latest move, the district contends the June decision was based on a faulty interpretation of the state aid laws.

It said the court reversed and denied payment of the payment through reasoning using the estimated budget for the school year in question as the base in the formula.

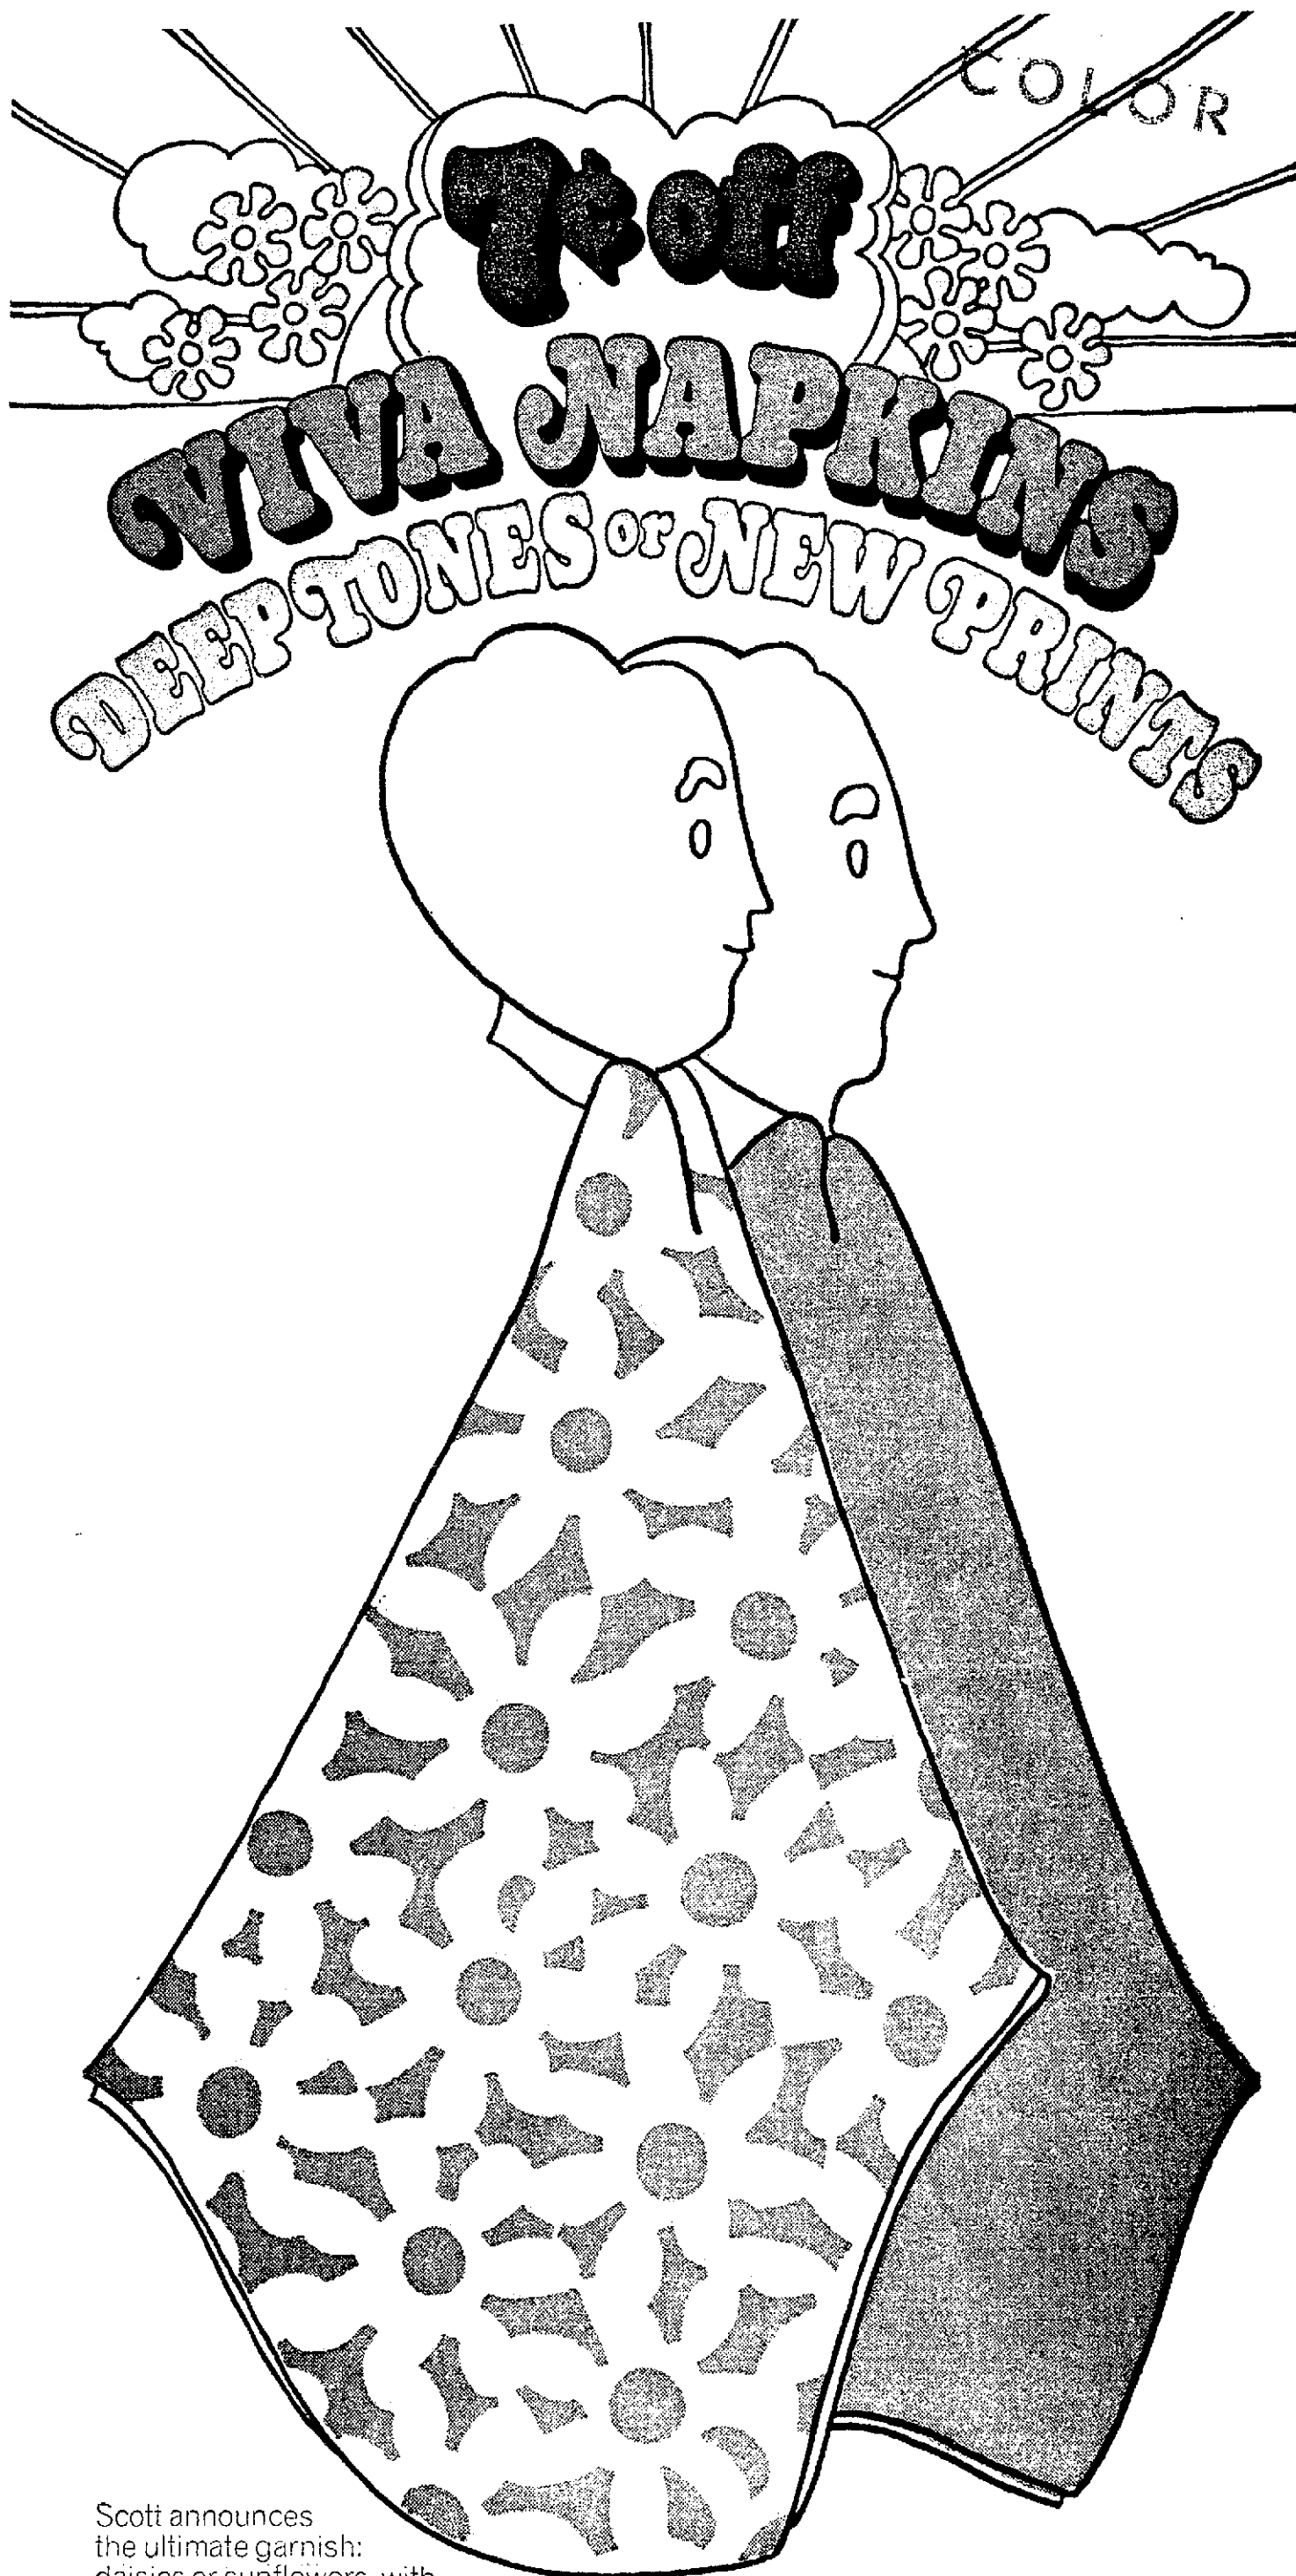

The district contends the law requires the previous year be used in figuring state aid. It said the law uses the word "actual" per pupil cost to be used in figuring state aid and not "estimated."

"When 'actual' means 'estimated' then the statutory language has become separated from the dictionary," the district said in its brief requesting the new hearing.

Varner Suggests Limiting NU Tenure

... CHANCELLOR PROPOSES 5-YEAR TERMS

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

Conceding he was "dealing with one of the delicate issues of the academic community," University of Nebraska Chancellor D. B. Varner Tuesday suggested limiting the tenure of university professors.

The suggestion, which Varner termed a "tentative formulation," came in a wide-ranging message to members of a 36-man "study committee on university governance" formed to draft a new set of bylaws and administrative rules for the NU system.

The chancellor also suggested the committee, meeting for the first time, consider limiting the appointments of administrators from the level of department chairmen to the chancellorship.

Potential For Abuse

Varner said he believed it essential for the university to act soon to develop some method to both strengthen and preserve the tenure system and to "eliminate the potential for abuse."

And he suggested "that each of us given an administrative assignment must be prepared to stand the test of evaluation on a periodic basis."

Discussing topics which he said he believed the study committee should give "serious consideration," Varner also recommended it look into problems associated with decision-making and involvement, and he offered several suggestions for the committee to study.

Appointed by Varner at the direction of NU's regents, the committee includes students, faculty members and administrators from each of the university's three campuses, plus a representative for each of the eight regents and one appointed by the chancellor himself.

Outgrowth Of Conflicts

Originally called an "academic constitutional convention," the study committee is an outgrowth of faculty concern over a number of controversies on the Lincoln campus during the past year.

Faculty members who drafted the proposal for the study believe it may be a unique undertaking in American academic circles.

Varner said although he has no answer to the "sensitive problem" of tenure, or continuous appointment, he hopes

NU "can develop some internal procedures to safeguard the strengths of the system rather than sitting idly by only to see it demolished from external pressures."

Tenure For Term

He suggested awarding tenure after a given time and through an appropriate procedure "to a given term — perhaps a five-year term."

"At the end of this first tenure term a panel of peers — possibly from other universities — would be assembled to review the continued growth and effectiveness of the tenured faculty member," he said.

If he were deemed an effective faculty member, his term would be extended for another five years when it would be subject to the same review, Varner suggested.

He suggested a similar appointment and review for administrators, at five or perhaps three years, and he said such a system would provide for "graceful reassignment" at the request of either the administration or his colleagues.

Outlining the demands on universities to remain responsive to their constituents on the one hand, and the "conscience of the community" on the other, Varner offered for the committee's consideration three alternatives to the problems of internal decision-making:

—Establishment of an external hearing officer or board, likely to reach the courts.

He suggested such a plan might eliminate what he termed the "enormous expenditure of manpower" during the past few months on several controversial cases, which were investigated by administrators, faculty members and students.

—Appointment of small cabinets of faculty members and perhaps students which, granted

"broad powers," would work closely with the campus presidents.

—Entrusting the task of administration of competent administrators. He said he suggested that alternative "with understandable timidity."

"My purpose in flagging your attention is not to deny the spirit of participation," he told the committee, "but rather to ask if we may not have gone too far already in this area in terms of the well-being of the institution."

"I have seen so many thoroughly competent teachers and scholars spend endless hours in committee activities with frequently questionable end products," he added.

"And while all this has been occurring, I have been mindful of the great contributions which could have been made in their assigned areas of responsibility."

All-NU Committee Begins Drafting New Bylaws, Administrative Rules

A 36-member committee Tuesday afternoon began the task of drafting a new set of bylaws and administrative rules for the University of Nebraska.

Appointed by Chancellor D. B. Varner, the committee has been charged with enumerating "the powers, functions, and responsibilities of the constituent parts of the university, including a statement of procedures assuring academic due process for both tenured and non-tenured faculty members."

Meeting with the study committee, Varner urged its members to attempt to complete some draft document by the end of the summer.

Peterson Chairman

He said he was appointing Prof. Wallace Peterson, chairman of NU-Lincoln's economics department, chairman of the study.

Peterson is one of the faculty members most involved in the plan for the study, which grew out of faculty concern over several controversial issues on the Lincoln campus last year.

The 30 committee members present agreed to meet again July 6 at the NU Medical Center in Omaha to begin discussion of questions related to decision-making in the university and to agree on an organizational plan for the effort.

The final document will have to be approved by the various constituencies involved and ultimately adopted by the Board of Regents after a series of public hearings.

As Long As 2 Years

Varner said he believed the undertaking may take as long

Pakistan Claims Border Violated By Indian Troops

Rawalpindi, Pakistan (AP) — The government claimed Tuesday Indian troops have again violated the East Pakistan-Indian border by sending troops into Pakistani territory and mounting a mortar attack.

The government announced several incidents June 19 which it said began when Indian forces subjected a Pakistani patrol to intense mortar fire in the Lathitilla district.

The same day, the government said, Indian troops crossed the border in the Manipur District and fired on Pakistanis. The Indians withdrew when Pakistani troops returned the fire, the announcement said.

as two years before it reaches the regental adoption stage.

Involved in the study are students, faculty members and administrators from each of the NU campuses, plus representatives of each of the regents and the chancellor.

Here is a list of the 36 members:

NU-Lincoln: Professors Peterson, James A. Lake and M. G. Boudalis; students Bill Arfmann, Diane Thorsen Beecher, Steve Fowler and Nancy Ryan (one an alternate); administrators Melvin D. George, Alan T. Seagren, Virginia Y. Trotter.

NU at Omaha: Professors Eugene H. Freund, Harry W. Reynolds Jr. and David M. Sutherland; students Mary Jane Lohmeier, Rudy Schwartz and Jim Zedina; administrators Harold Keefover, Robert C. O'Reilly and William Utley.

Medical Center: Professors William R. Ruegger, Sybil Savinsky, and Joseph C. Scott Jr.; students Forrest Alton, Louis Kleaser and Pamela Watkins; administrators Rena E. Boyle, Ralph J. Cerny and Robert E. Kugel. Regents appointees: State Education Dept. consultant Carl Blank for Regent Raun; Lincoln auctioneer Avery Forke for Schwartzkopf; NU-Lincoln placement director Frank Halgren for Maylan; Schuyler attorney Lloyd L. Pospisil for Wagner; retiring NU Museum director C. Bertrand Schultz for Prokop; Northern Natural Gas executive Dale Tekolste for Hansen; Copper Foundation executive E. N. Thompson for Elliott; and Grand Island resident James Wenger for Koopel.

Chancellor's designee: Executive Vice Chancellor Mark Hobson.

The Eye Language Of Fashion

By NELLE GREER

NEW YORK — Tuesday was a day of fashion world armistices — Adele Simpson, Trigere, Bob Brown for the famous Kimberly knits, and Jerry Silverman, but not necessarily in the order given. Although clothes monopolized the major portion of the day, there were other segments of fashion also in the spotlight. Herbert and Beth Levine were there with a tremendous variety of shoes, sandals, boots and all other things that could give aid and comfort to a lady's sole.

A film which not only showed some designs by winners of the Coty awards, but also gave clues as to how one could coax her face into looking as good as the expensive frock on her back. This was done, naturally, with Coty products — eyeliners, eye shadows (frosted creams), whipped gel face color, and the 'blush pot,' which ordinarily comes under the heading of rouge. Only three designers were named to Coty's Hall of Fame, and the threesome included Anne Klein, Betsy Johnson Halstom and Larry Kane — a designer for men.

But, let's begin at the beginning, and that would be Adele Simpson — this noted designer of fashion clothes that speak in the eye language. Certainly no one could look away from them. Who could turn away from a walking costume that included a buttoned down coat dress patterned with shades of brown and russet on a beige background, or the silver-grey and russet jacket worn over a one-piece dress? No one. The art set will like the idea of Matisse blue. Adele Simpson used it to fashion a molded princess dress with a slightly flared skirt in wool crepe.

The designer had a group of 'city' dresses for which she used fur — genuine fake fur since she believes in saving the species. But, to get on with the story — One of the city dresses was done in broadtail — baby broadtail at that, but the baby never had owned a mother. It was a jacket and skirt in broadtail with an attached top of wool jersey. Another dress in the classification of 'city' was in wool and worn under a civet cat coat, with matching hood.

In the Simpson collection was a black velvet jacket worn with a scarlet skirt, white silk blouse, and belted in rhinestones. There was a cherry and plum tone 'stadium' suit, and there were gowns in body-shaped metallic jersey, and a bright Gauguin red, long skirted and quite lovely.

Simpson showed just one jump suit — black velvet jacket and knee-length shorts, both bordered with gold. But one of the elegant and elegant numbers was the Renaissance evening gowns, slightly-below-the-shoulder use accessories according to the mood.

Next on the scene was Papillon who used wool angora, sheer wool crepes, imported cashmere, and the usual velvet and matte jersey effectively. She transformed black on white novelty tweed into a good-looking one-piece dress belted in black. She composed a jumper dress for evening from wool crepe, and added a note by way of a white satin-back crepe blouse. One of Papillon's outstanding productions was the black velvet smoking jacket, bound with black silk braid, which was worn with a black velvet shirt. Papillon had many prints in a variety of fabrics. As a matter of fact one had the feeling that there were too many prints with not enough variety in the patterns.

Jerry Silverman needs no introduction to the clothes-conscious woman, but he gives full credit for his popularity to his designer, Shannon Rodgers.

Just as the Silverman show was about to begin there was a demonstration in front of Essex House where the American Designers are showing this week. The demonstration was in protest to showing fashions in furs which didn't bother Mr. Silverman or his designer since almost all of the fur trim and furs they showed were fake.

One of those fake furs, ocelot, was the lining for a cape, and another fake was full-length, all-purpose broadtail coat, worn over a jersey blouse and a broadtail skirt.

The Silverman-Rodgers show presented variety in common sense clothes — there were short dinner dresses — one with a brown satin skirt, touched with white, under a white satin top — there was brocade in polyester worn with a waist-length jacket, and there were sleeveless chiffon wool gowns.

The Silverman duo also showed basic evening gowns in silk satin. There was no adornment — your own diamond necklace is supposed to furnish the decoration.

This morning we make announcement of the engagement of Miss Shirley June Bowen, daughter of Chaplain and Mrs. Glen I. Bowen of Ft. Ord, Calif., to Gerald L. Finneman, son of T. H. Finneman and Mrs. Myrtle Finneman, both of Marraeth, N. D.

A December wedding is planned.

Woods Sr. and Mr. and Mrs. Marshall B. Jones of Sioux City.

Coed Chose Ogallala Ceremony

A recent bride is Miss Donna Lynn Malick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dell Malick of Harlingen, Tex., whose marriage to Gregg Robert Sadler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Sadler of McCook, was solemnized at the Memorial United Methodist Church in Ogallala by the Rev. Stanley Rider.

Miss Kari Moore of Omaha served as the bride's only attendant. She wore a pale yellow frock of silk organza over taffeta. She carried a basket of yellow and white daisies.

Bill Madron of McCook was the best man, and the ushers were Bob Norman of McCook and Steve Ride of Ogallala.

The bride chose a gown of ivory silk organza over taffeta styled in a modified Victorian silhouette. The fitted bodice was trimmed with Venice lace at the stand-up ring collar and yoke. An A-line skirt extended in the back to a chapel-length train. Her floor-length veil was trimmed with the lace. She carried a bouquet of yellow sweetheart roses, stephanotis, violets and gypsophelia.

Mr. Sadler and his bride are residing in Stevens Point, Wisc., for the summer.

The bride attends the University of Nebraska where Mr. Sadler is a senior.

Opening lead —seven of spades.

Declarer is usually in trouble if he lacks communication between his own hand and dummy. Whatever the circumstances, declarer's ability to enter either hand at will is generally a giant factor in his favor.

The defenders must likewise be able to communicate freely, and in many hands this contact is absolutely critical. But since the defenders nearly always have less high-card strength than the declarer, they must husband their resources much more carefully in order to stay in touch with one another.

Take this deal where East had to make a good play to defeat the contract. West led a spade in response to East's overcall and declarer played the ten from dummy.

Had East made the mistake of playing the king, South would have made the contract quite easily. Whatever East returned, South would have been able to establish his diamonds in time to score at least nine tricks. East's spades would have withered on the vine because he would have been unable to establish and cash them.

Thoroughly aware of the impending difficulty, East signaled with the nine instead of winning with the king. This directed West to play another spade if and when he gained the lead. East hoped to find West with another spade and a diamond entry as well.

When this proved to be the case, South had to go down one. He won the spade lead with the jack and led a diamond, but West rushed up with the king and played another spade, removing the ace and establishing partner's suit.

South could now do no better than cash four clubs, two spades and two hearts, and the contract failed as a result of East's truly thoughtful play at trick one.

Abby: it's still Christmas in their neighborhood on the lawn. You can't miss it!"

DEAR ABBY: I read in your column where someone said if a girl in a small town proved to be "easy" for the guys, if she wanted to get married, she had better leave town because guys talk.

Well, girls talk about guys who take them out for only one thing, and if the guys don't have to leave town, why should the girls?

JUST ASKING

DEAR JUST: Because in spite of all the women's "libbing it up"—it's still a man's world.

DEAR ABBY: I have two very close girl friends. I'll call them "Blondie" and "Red."

My problem is that these girls are not speaking to each other. It's not just a little spat that might blow over soon, they have been bitter enemies for a long time. I am going to be married soon and I want them both in my wedding party. (I was maid of honor for both of them.)

Blondie says if Red is in the wedding party, I can count

HER out. On the other hand, Red says she doesn't care if Blondie is in the wedding party or not, but she'll ignore her if she is. Abby, I hate to leave either one of my friends out, so what should I do?

IN THE MIDDLE

DEAR IN: Don't let Blondie force you to make a decision. Tell her that you want her in your wedding party, but you intend to invite whomever else you want, and if she chooses to accept or decline, the decision is HERS!

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90060. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Farm Bureau Urges Examination Of Gov. J. J. Exon's Political Horse

By United Press International

The Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation said Tuesday farmers and ranchers should look Gov. J. J. Exon's political horse in the mouth before he rides too far.

The FB, in its publication the "Midland View," said Exon has "suddenly and loudly" proclaimed improving agriculture as his "number one interest in his political life."

The FB said Nebraskans "may find this a bit strange" coming from the man who vetoed extensive property tax relief programs which would have helped the farmers and ranchers.

"Before this political horse is ridden too far, farm and ranch people should be asking what kind of saddle the governor proposes to put on him and how light the cinch is going to be," the FB said.

The legislation vetoed during the 1971 session of the Legislature, on which Exon took a stand against the campaign waged by the FB, was authored by Sen. Jules Burbach of Crofton.

The first vetoed would have ultimately provided a 90% exemption for farm and business equipment and inventory. The second would have offered an ultimate 50% exemption.

As to Exon's announced plans to provide aid to the farmers and ranchers, the FB charged they are "non-controversial and have been said in some form or other" over the past 15 years.

But the FB noted Exon has now launched a campaign to "sell the idea" of a federal food and fiber board to be appointed by the president.

"And the governor said that such a board would be above the plane of politics and would set national price and production policies," the federation said.

However, the organization said its primary purpose is to control money, rather than commodities.

"Obviously there is a difference between controlling the supply of one commodity (money) through the relatively small number of banks in the banking system and controlling the production and marketing of several hundred agricultural commodities by some 3 million farmers with all of their diversities of skills, interests and capabilities," the FB said.

The organization said the governor also talks of establishing a "strategic reserve of farm commodities as if this idea were a new-found gimmick."

But the FB said "huge stocks of government-held surplus" have acted as a depressant to market prices.

"And they have been very handy to dump onto the market too, when prices started climbing as they did last fall during the corn blight scare," the organization added.

39 Districts Need Further Integration

(c) Washington Star

Washington — The Department of Health, Education and Welfare Tuesday told 39 districts in 11 states that they will be required to further desegregate their schools in the fall to comply with the recent United States Supreme Court decision on desegregation. All the districts are in southern or border states.

Tuesday's action was the first since the April 20 court decision that HEW has taken against school districts desegregating under voluntary plans negotiated with the department.

Civil rights officials said that, in all, 80 to 100 school districts with voluntary plans will be required to desegregate further in time for the opening of schools in the fall.

The districts notified are in Florida, Kentucky, Maryland, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Delaware, Mississippi, Oklahoma, Texas and Virginia.

Jean DeMartino breaks into tears following a ruling by Dade County Circuit Court Judge Ralph Cullen that she and her husband, Nicholas, could keep 1-year-old baby Lenore, subject of a bitter court fight between the DeMartinos and her natural mother, Miss Olga Scarpetta. The DeMartinos, who also have an adopted 4-year-old daughter, have had Lenore since June 18, 1970, three weeks after her mother put her up for adoption. Miss Scarpetta testified she signed the adoption papers but felt "troubled and guilty." Later, she said she had changed her mind and wanted the child back.

NAB Elects R. W. Chapin Chairman Of The Board

Washington — Richard W. Chapin, president of Stuart Enterprises in Lincoln, Tuesday was unanimously elected chairman of the board of directors of the National Association of Broadcasters (NAB).

Chapin, 48, was under treatment in a Washington, D.C. hospital for a kidney stone ailment and did not attend the board meeting.

As chairman of the 44-member board of directors of the joint NAB radio and television boards, Chapin will also serve as chairman of the association's seven-member executive committee.

Chapin has served as chairman of the radio board for the past two years. He has also been vice chairman of NAB's Future of Broadcasting Code Membership Committee.

He is a member of the board of directors of the National Bank of Commerce and the Papillon bank and is trustee of the University of Nebraska Foundation.

Stuart Enterprises operates six Midwest radio stations, an outdoor advertising company, has newspaper holdings, an insurance company and is involved in various real estate interests.

County Commissioners Approve Role In Transportation Planning

Lancaster County commissioners Tuesday approved the county's financial participation in transportation planning for metropolitan urban areas of Lancaster County.

City-County Planning Director Douglas Brogden said that the 1962 highway act requires counties of more than 50,000 population to have a continuous urban planning process.

He and County Engineer Walter Hoppe told the commissioners that if the county did not participate in its $3,700 share of the planning, it stands to lose some $150,000 in federal highway aid.

Already OK'd By City

The City of Lincoln has already approved its participation, which amounts to $27,060, while the financing provided by the state is $25,800.

In other business, the board again deferred until budget time in the next two weeks a decision on whether to seek funding for a county detention home, possibly available through the Crime Commission.

Juvenile Probation Officer William Janike told the commissioners that it is not felt that the present facilities at Westview are adequate and that the Crime Commission has in its comprehensive plan a proposed $75,000 in matching funds to use for a Lancaster County detention home.

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplaine

The weather turned warm in Paris. We all went to lunch at Ramponneau's. It's a garden restaurant. Near the Seine on Avenue Marceau. One-starred by Michelin.

We had salad of cucumbers—for some reason they're better in France than any place else in the world. We had goose, crisped in its own dripping. The fraise du bois are in season. The little wild strawberries.

For years I couldn't afford to eat at Ramponneau's. The owner was so grateful.

Monsieur Charles. I came back and he embraced me. He seized my hand. He gazed in my eyes.

He said "How can I thank you? Je vous remercie! You've written about Ramponneau, and now all the tourists come!" (Tourist business was a new thing then.)

M. Charles rose and shouted to the head waiter "Bring the special champagne!" He said to me "Only three bottles left in all of France!"

He popped the cork and poured some for me. He poured a great glass for himself. He raised his eyes to heaven. "Never again will we taste such champagne."

He sent for the chef. The chef came running out. White coat. White puff of chef's cap.

M. Charles said angrily: "Something special. This is the man who has sent us the millionaire American clients."

He said to the head waiter: "A bottle of the reserve Romanee Conti." He opened the bottle and poured some. He poured himself a glass. Downed it and refilled it.

"The last bottle of that year in all France," he said reverently.

The food came, course after course. M. Charles said. "The chef has prepared for you specially the petit Jesu sur toast."

He said "I have had him prepare a fresh salmon. Poached in our special sauce."

He watched me eat each bite—he had plate of it himself to see that it was properly cooked.

M. Charles ordered cheese. He brought on baskets of rare fruit, imported out of season from Israel. He had a bowl of hot house grapes, chilled in ice.

"How can I thank you?" he said.

He brought out another bottle of another wine. It was the last bottle in all France. He enjoyed every drop of it.

The head waiter then brought me the check. About $50. M. Charles turned to one side delicately while I paid it. He said to me: "Now—I must buy you a brandy." And he did.

I didn't go back. I couldn't afford the gratitude. But then I heard M. Charles had gone to his reward. Now among the angels. Whatever he is drinking, it's probably the last bottle of that year in heaven.

Program To Tell Story Of State Colleges

By The Associated Press

A state college official said Tuesday Nebraska's State College Board of Trustees will soon begin showing an "informational" program throughout the state about Nebraska's four state colleges.

James Todd, the executive officer for the board of trustees, said the 16-minute color slide show and its taped narrative was done for the board by an Omaha firm.

The project cost about $5,000, according to Todd, and was paid for with funds from the board's endowment fund which includes state tax money.

The program will be shown to service clubs, civic organizations and other groups, he explained, and would be available through the board or his office.

"The intent of this informational," Todd explained. We have an obligation to make people aware of the opportunities which exist in the four state colleges. That is why it was put together."

Todd emphasized that the program is not intended to "sell" the college system over the University of Nebraska or private schools in the state but said it is "purely informational."

Todd, now in his second year as the board's executive officer, said he had found in talking with Nebraskans that many of them know little about the four schools located at Chadron, Kearney, Peru and Wayne.

"We have found that people are unaware of what the colleges are trying to do," said Todd, "and we're trying to tell them."

The program traces the history and development of the colleges and explains the educational opportunities offered on each campus.

Nebraska Electric Systems Plan To Seek $20 Million In Loans

By United Press International

A spokesman said Tuesday during the coming year Nebraska rural electric systems plan to seek $20 million in loans to finance service expansion programs.

"Based on a survey, Nebraska systems will apply for $20 million in loans by the end of fiscal year 1972 (June 30)," said Dick Wilkerson, general manager of the Nebraska Rural Electric Association.

Some of the money, he said, may come from a new source which has been opened to rural systems at the national level.

Purpose Explained

Last year the National Rural Utilities Cooperative Finance Corp. (CFC) was formed. Its purpose is to provide some relief to rural systems needing money which have been hampered by high private finance costs and dwindling federal loan money.

Wilkerson reported nationally there is a backlog of some $800 million in loan requests to the federal Rural Electric Administration.

The administration has for some time been the primary source of financing rural systems, but through the years has experienced dwindling funds for loan.

The CFC was formed to step in and serve the backlog as well as assume a greater year to year responsibility for loaning money, Wilkerson said.

To Pay $988,000
In Nebraska 24 of the 32 systems in the state have agreed to pay $988,000 over the next three years into CFC, he said.

In turn, CFC will make the money available for loans either in conjunction with federal loans or separately.

The member systems will also realize a return on the money paid into the finance company, Wilkerson said.

Under its terms, the systems would receive a two per cent yield on the money paid in.

However, Wilkerson said Nebraska's systems are not experiencing the financial problems being encountered in other states by rural systems.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

By SIDNEY OMARR

Forecast For Wednesday
Astrologers consider Jupiter to be the most fortunate of planets. Jupiter is related to the zodiacal sign of Sagittarius. Many born under this sign are associated with philosophy, history and medicine. These are the natural teachers, publishers and authors. On the negative side, the Sagittarian can be pedantic. Not everyone can live with a Sagittarian, but very few persons would enjoy a world devoid of this intriguing zodiacal sign. Sagittarius is harmonious to Aries, Leo, Libra and Aquarius.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): One you depend upon may have divergent opinion on how to accomplish basic goals. Spread influence. You are not without allies. Male, partner acts in eccentric manner.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Routine remains anything but stable. Activity is order of day; short journey is on agenda. Libra individual provides surprise. Checking apparent minor details pays off.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Course of true love is not going to run smoothly. Don't take lover's quarrel too seriously. Economic factor figures prominently. Set-back is but temporary.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Home, domestic issues cannot successfully be hidden under rug. Thorough house cleaning is in order. Family member requires tender loving care. Diplomacy is your ally.

LEO (July 23-August 22): Visit one confined to a home, hospital. Overcome tendency to brood. Look to future rather than merely contemplating what could have been. A notion is not a concept.

VIRGO (August 23-September 22): Unusual source of income becomes available. Be ready, willing and able. Accent on how to best utilize social contacts. A friend really does have a valid answer.

LIBRA (September 23-October 22): Surprise element is featured. Assignments are subject to sudden change. You may get what you want but not in manner anticipated. Move with the times. Don't fight city hall.

SCORPIO (October 23-November 21): One who attempts to tie up your finances appears to be confused. Don't compound error. Realize you do have long-range commitments. Get fair return on investments.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22-December 21): You seem to encounter a rash of social inferiors. There is no need to feel superior, but don't waste what you have worked hard to gain in the past. Check investments.

CAPRICORN (December 22-January 19): Income from occupation is emphasized. Avoid spreading efforts too thin. One who offers contract may be whispering in dark. Answer comes if you are quiet within.

AQUARIUS (January 20-February 18): Puzzle pieces fall into place. You find out where you are going and how to arrive at destination. A Libra individual can play a sympathetic, constructive role.

PISCES (February 19-March 20): You feel exuberant. Good lunar aspect now coincides with creativity, ability to put across ideas. Write and communicate. Laugh at one who insists on singing the blues.

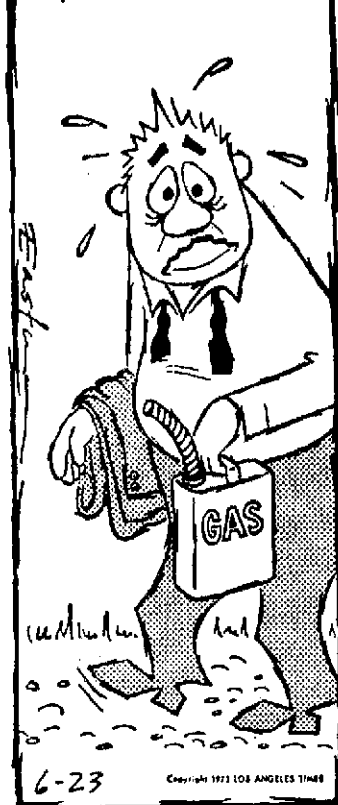

TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY what was begun last year is slowly bearing fruit. Applies to business and personal relationships. You are a much better host than a guest. No matter what your financial status, there usually is plenty of food in the house. Most members of opposite sex find you delightful.

New Court Fee To Be Checked

State Auditor Ray A. C. Johnson said Tuesday he has instructed his field auditors throughout the state to determine the accountability of courts throughout the state for a new court fee enacted by the 1971 Legislature.

The tax is contained in LB929 and provides that a $1 law enforcement improvement fund fee shall be taxed as court costs in each criminal proceeding including moving traffic violations filed in all state courts.

Johnson said he was concerned that some courts might overlook the fee, which must be paid to the state treasurer on a quarterly basis.

WHAT'S BEST TO TAKE FOR Dull, Throbbing Pain Of Nervous Tension Headaches?

Anyone who suffers from tension headaches knows only too well how the throbbing pain can dull efficiency, play havoc with nerves and slow you down.

What's best to take? Clinical tests by doctors on over 500 patients who complained of tension headaches proved Anacin® relieves nervous tension headaches just as effectively as the expensive leading prescription. Yet Anacin needs no prescription and costs far less.

Here is other convincing evidence of the effectiveness of Anacin. A survey of over 1,600 specialists in internal medicine showed twice as many doctors said they would recommend the Anacin formula to relieve pain over that of the other leading extra-strength tablet. Yes, twice as many doctors prefer Anacin's formula.

You can trust Anacin to relieve headache pain in minutes. Then its nervous tension and painful pressure on nerves go, too. Anacin lets you do a better job. Lets you function better.

Despite its great strength, Anacin is not habit-forming. You can take it without getting an upset stomach. It makes good sense to take fast-acting, extra-strong Anacin Tablets.

'Educational Participation In Community' Biggest Curriculum Change At LHS

The Lincoln Board of Education was told Tuesday that the greatest long-range impact from curriculum changes at Lincoln High School may be in plans for "educational participation in community (EPIC)."

"EPIC is a real opportunity to return to something that has always been a part of education," Lincoln High Principal William Bogar said.

He said he believes the program will be particularly valuable in acquainting young people with the "ethical needs of society."

In a progress report on curriculum changes, scheduled to be initiated this fall, Bogar said EPIC will put young people into individual contract basis.

The student will "receive credit as part of his experience in the community," Bogar said, and he added he envisions students working as aides in county welfare work, in elementary schools, government and other fields of volunteer service.

EPIC is one part of what Supt. John Prasch Tuesday called a "major step... in the right direction" in high school structure.

The changes will provide more student choice in subject matter, more opportunities for teachers to concentrate on major areas of interest and extended use of the building, Bogar said.

'Topical' Courses

Although year-long and semester courses will constitute 80% of the schools' subject offerings, nine-week or "topical" courses will also become a significant part of the curriculum.

Short courses offered next year will include such classes as "families in crisis" in the home economics department, water polo in physical education and black literature in English.

The social studies department is offering a wide range of classes, including "growth of the West," "your rights and responsibilities," "the role of women" and "The Roaring 20s."

Resource Centers

The plan will include an extended school day, with resource centers open from early morning to late afternoon.

Bogar said his teachers are spending two weeks this summer in workshops to prepare for the changeover.

In other matters at Tuesday's meeting, the school board gave cool reception to a suggestion from Prasch that elementary schools be permitted to allow commercial photographers to take individual student pictures.

Prasch said he believes it "inconsistent" to permit individual picture-taking, with sale to students who want them, at the secondary level and not the elementary level.

But several board members, noting the secondary pictures are originally taken for use in school yearbooks, questioned whether the move would do more than provide an easy market for commercial photographers.

Elementary schools are now permitted to have only group pictures taken.

In an informal session on the Lincoln Technical College Budget, the board was told the college believes Institution of a mechanical technician program its first priority for program expansion.

The college officials said welding technicians are especially needed.

Prasch told the board he believed it should differentiate between costs for the day school program and the tech college in the upcoming budget to prepare for a planned statewide coordination and more state funding of tech colleges.

The school district in the past has provided some services from the day school program to the tech college without identifying those items in the budget.

In other matters, the board: —approved pay increases for miscellaneous employees, including teaching aides, substitute teachers and substitute teachers.

—heard a report on proposals for financing ETV programming through the State Education Department.

—withheld action on bids for lunchroom equipment, pending a report on a planned program of packaged lunch program at Bryan School.

Court Ruling Said Pushing Compulsory Auto Insurance

A recent U.S. Supreme Court ruling may push Nebraska in the direction of compulsory motor vehicle liability insurance, in the view of State Insurance Director Samuel Van Pelt.

The high court recently held the State of Georgia could not suspend the licenses of uninsured drivers who fail to demonstrate proof of financial responsibility after an accident, without first holding a hearing on proof of liability.

Nebraska has the same kind of uninsured motorist law. It has been estimated the cost to the state of holding the prescribed hearings could run to $1 million a year.

Because of the ruling, State Motor Vehicles Director John Kissack has ordered that no more uninsured motorist licenses be suspended, unless there is failure to file an accident report or failure to satisfy a civil suit judgment, short of bankruptcy.

Van Pelt said the court ruling "probably pushes us one and maybe several steps toward compulsory insurance."

Wilson A 'Top Contender' For Paid State GOP Post

Glenn R. Wilson Jr. of Omaha, executive director of the National Federation of Young Republicans, has been mentioned by State Republican Chairman Milan Bish of Grand Island as "one of the top contenders" for the paid position of GOP executive secretary for Nebraska.

The party seeks a successor to Joe Edwards. The state chairman traditionally selects the executive secretary.

Bish said Wilson is one of several persons being considered for the post.

Wilson, 33, was manager of an Omaha print company from 1963 to 1967. He was involved in campaigns for Omaha Mayor A. V. Sorensen, Sen. Carl T. Curtis and Lt. Gov. John E. Evard. He was named to his current post with the Young Republicans organization when Ron Romans of Ralston became chairman of that organization.

Romans' successor as chairman is expected to bring in his own executive director.

Administration Of Childrens Hospitals Okayed

Omaha — Directors of Childrens Hospital have approved hiring Methodist Hospital to administer the 100-bed Childrens Hospital.

A. W. Gordon Jr., Childrens board president, said the contract will go into effect July 1.

Methodist Hospital's board earlier approved the arrangement, administrator John Estabrook said.

William Picard, now head of Methodist's Eppler Complex, will become administrator of Childrens, a post that has been vacant for six months.

MOST AMAZING HEARING AID

In the years of experience that the writer has been in the hearing aid business, the new MAICO Mark 100 behind-the-ear instrument is the most revolutionary advancement in hearing aid technology.

It's amazing—It's astonishing—It's unbelievable—People who have worn it can't believe their own ears—Most unwanted noises disappear—it makes "selective hearing" a reality.

We would be glad to compare it with any hearing aid now in use that is in a similar power range or even those that may have a greater gain—HEARING IS BELIEVING!

Call or write me for an appointment in our office or in your home for a Mark 100 demonstration, 713 Sharp Building—Lincoln, Nebr. Phone—432-1967.

Sports Editor, The Star

Out Of Touch

Sports thoughts while wondering where the guy had been, who called at noon Tuesday to find out who had won the U.S. Open playoff:

Golf courses are said to have character and you might figure that the Merion course, site of the U.S. Open, must have a lot of pride. Consider what the course did to those golfers the day after they had beaten its par.

On opening day, Labron Harris Jr. hit the course with a 67. The next day the course hit Harris with a 77. In the second round, two virtual unknowns Bob Erickson and Jerry McGee recorded the low rounds of 67.

So what does Merion do. It hangs a 77 on McGee the next day and stings Erickson with a 73, then a 79.

And in the third round, an amateur named Jim Simons was so unthoughtful as to shoot a 65. Merion showed him the next day with a 76.

It was almost as if Merion had human feelings and when its pride was injured, it fought back.

Winner Of Poor Taste Award

Anyone wanting to vie for the Poor Taste Award for 1971 is going to have to go some to top Sioux City TV station KTIV, Channel 4, and those phony pro rassling promoters.

Nothing it seems is allowed to interfere with Joe Dusek and his band of freaks as they try to sell tickets to future shows via canned TV productions.

Some people will recall a story in the papers late last week about a pro rassler, Alberto Torres, dying from an accident during a rassling match.

Saturday night, the Sioux City television station carried one of those rassling shows that had been taped prior to Torres' death.

Most of the talking and boasting during the show centered around which of the villains was to be given credit for putting Torres in the hospital and what the good guys were going to do to the bad guys for putting him there.

The whole thing had a stinky odor about the circumstances. The station surely had an old John Wayne movie lying around that could have been substituted. Even a test pattern for that hour would have made better sense.

Immature Behavior Award

And while we're passing out dubious awards, how about one to the Lincoln Snipe Fleet for the most immature behavior of the year.

That group surely showed a lot of class (mostly lack of same) by phoning in a phony story to our sports desk Sunday night.

It was a cute trick fellows, but you needn't bother to call any more, either with a straight story or a phony one. Neither is welcome from you.

Cigs 50-55c, No Fieldhouse

While Nebraska cigarette smokers are complaining about paying 50 cents for a pack of those coffin nails, folks in Sioux City, Iowa, just across the river from Nebraska, are paying 50 and 55 cents and they're not even building anything.

Oregon, Nebraska's opening 1971 football foe, has been picked to finish third by the Pacific Eight sports information directors, behind Southern Cal and Stanford.

Lincoln golfer P. M. Anderson is among the nation's golfers qualifying for the annual Rusty Nail Hole-In-One Sweepstakes with first prize being $1,000 in cash and a trip for two to Scotland.

Devaney Sees Repeat Of 1970 As 'Shot In Dark'

... POINTS OUT THAT CORNHUSKER FANS PROBABLY DON'T AGREE, HOWEVER

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — College football's winningest coach, Bob Devaney, feels the chances are slim that his Nebraska Cornhuskers can repeat as national champions this year.

But, he quipped, it is not likely that Cornhusker fans share this view.

"I would say another national championship would be a real shot in the dark at this time," said Devaney, who is coaching the West team in the Coaches All America game here Saturday night.

In fact, he added, "I think it would be very improbable. I think the squad attitude is good enough that they feel that they can win any game they go into, but I think as coaches we've got some real problems to settle before we can be strong contenders even for the Big Eight championship."

Devaney said Nebraska lost some very outstanding players from the undefeated 1970 team that capped his campaign with a 17-12 triumph over Louisiana State in the Orange Bowl.

LSU's Charley McLendon is coaching the opposing East team here.

"Nebraska has a good football team and we've got quite a few returning veterans,"

Devaney continued, but spring drills failed to produce replacements for a number of key players.

"In other words," he said, "we don't have a guy at the present time who looks to be the caliber of Joe Jordana, who we lost as a running back."

Graduation also plucked from the ranks such players as linebacker Jerry Murtaugh, tackle Bob Newton, fullback Dan Schuess and kicking specialist Paul Rogers.

All but Rogers are here for the East-West game.

Touching briefly on national championship contenders, Devaney said:

"I think you've always got to consider the University of Texas. They've developed over the last eight or 10 years a tremendously strong team year in and year out."

"Also, Notre Dame, Southern California, and I think Penn State will be coming back. I also believe some Big Eight team's certainly will be under consideration."

"And a lot of people think Tennessee has a great football team returning, so these are just a few guesses around the country."

Sasse, Smith Scramble To Top Of Junior Golf Tourney

By STEVE GILLISPIE
Star Sports Writer

The lead in the Lincoln City Junior Boys Golf Tournament tightened up as two "old pros" scrambled to the top Tuesday.

Rennie Sasse at 158 and Doug Smith at 159, both at the maximum age of 15, are on top after 36 holes. Smith carded a 75 over the Hillcrest Country Club course Tuesday coming from a tie for third into second.

Sasse made a smaller jump turning in a 78 at Hillcrest to move from second into the lead.

Close behind Smith and Sasse are John Hergert and first-day leader Steve Statton, both tied at 160. Smith and Hergert just finished the eighth grade and will still be eligible for the tourney next year.

Smith took most of the attention with his 75 on a course he's only played three times.

"I had to get up closer to the leaders after my round Monday," he said. "I figured if I didn't, I wouldn't have much of a chance of winning."

"I went out to Holmes Park

Monday night and practiced on my drives after my 84 at Lincoln Country Club."

"I was 'duck hooking' the ball and catching a lot of trees at LCC. So I played nine holes at Holmes trying to correct my hook."

"I'll try and play par golf but I feel the championship will probably go down to the last day," Smith said.

Sasse, who has probably been the most consistent among the leaders, said he was satisfied with his performance. "I just tried to shoot my best and hope my game can last," he related.

The first 10 golfers were placed in the championship flight, the next 11 in the first flight, next 11 in the second, next 13 in the third, next 12 in the fourth and last 13 in the fifth.

Play will resume at Holmes Park for 18 holes today and will finish with 18 at Pioneers on Thursday.

SIEBERT NABS NO. 100

... Mets Edge Pirates

By Associated Press

Sonny Siebert, Boston right-hander, ended a four-game losing streak in pitching the Red Sox to a 2-0 victory over Cleveland Tuesday night.

The shutout not only gave Boston a split of a two-night doubleheader, but marked the 100th major league triumph for Siebert. It also was his 10th of the season against four set-backs.

Siebert, one of the two pitchers to defeat Vida Blue of Oakland this season, hadn't won a game since his May 28 conquest of Blue. That was his 11th straight, including a carryover of two from 1970.

Siebert scattered six hits in taming the Indians, who had trounced the Red Sox 9-3 in their first game.

Washington and Baltimore also divided a doubleheader, as did Detroit and the New York Yankees.

Washington beat the Orioles 6-6, then lost 2-0. Detroit took the opener from the Yankees 7-4 with five runs in the ninth, then fell 2-1 as Stan Bahnsen hurled his sixth consecutive complete game victory.

Jim Perry's three-bitter, for his 11th triumph of the campaign, helped Minnesota rout Oakland 10-1. Danny Friesella's relief pitching in the ninth saved rookie Charlie Williams' victory as the New York Mets shaded Pittsburgh 3-2.

Atlanta blanked Montreal 4-0. Cincinnati tripped Philadelphia 6-1 and the Chicago White Sox whacked Kansas City 11-6 in other games. The California at Milwaukee game was rained out in the third inning with the Brewers ahead 2-0.

Ron Redd of the Braves yielded only one infield hit for eight innings and finished with a three-hitter in blanking the Expos.

Tony Oliva, Rich Reese and Harmon Killebrew each drove in three runs for the Twins. Reese hit two homers. Oliva and Killebrew one each.

Williams had a shutout against the Pirates before the Braves knocked him out in the ninth with three hits and two runs. Friesella came in and got Riche Hebner to fly out and end the game.

The Senators knocked out Mike Cuellar in beating the Orioles, then were unable to score against Grant Jackson and Tom Dukes in the nightcap.

The Tigers trailed the Yankees 3-2 before coming up with their five runs with one out in the ninth of the opener. A two-run homer by Dick McAuliffe put the Tigers ahead.

Gary Nolan's six-bitter turned back the Phillies for the Reds.

Thw White Sox struck for eight runs in the second inning as they whipped the Royals for their third straight victory. Bill Melton's two-run homer featured the outburst.

In West Coast nighters, Left-hander John Cumberland, a first-time starter, shackled Chicago on three hits with last-out relief help, hurling the streaking San Francisco Giants to a 2-0 victory over the Cubs.

Joe Morgan's bases-loaded triple drove in the last three of Houston's four unearned runs as the Astros handed San Diego its seventh straight defeat 4-2.

Hay Fever Sidelines Ryun From AAU Meet

Eugene, Ore. (AP) — World record holder Jim Ryun will not compete in the mile run during this weekend's National AAU track and field championship meet at Eugene.

Hal Cowan, handling information for the meet, said Ryun told him late Tuesday his hay fever was too bad to allow him to compete.

Defending King Borner To Open Against Wilson

Hastings—Charlie Borner, the North Platte school teacher formerly of Lincoln, who won both the Nebraska State Amateur match and medal play championships a year ago, begins defense of his match play title here Friday, facing Omaha's Dean Wilson Jr. in first round play.

Two matches are scheduled Friday to reduce the 16-man field to four for Saturday's 11 a.m. semifinals at the Lochland Country Club. The championship match will be played Sunday, starting at noon.

Pirate Pitchers

The Pittsburgh Pirates started the National League season with pitchers who showed a 94-81 won-lost record for their 1970 major league activity.

BARE-HEADED ACE . . . Jackson.

Jackson, Breed Of Old Alive, Well At Ballard

By DAVE WALLNER
Star Sports Writer

When John Jackson toes a softball rubber, he looks like an actor out of costume or a Marine sergeant in civvies. No perpetual scowl, 5 o'clock shadow or glaring eyes staring out from under a creased baseball cap.

After watching 12 years of some of the best softball in the Midwest, possibly in the country, as a kid, a new baptism into the world of softball brings forth certain expectations of old forms and memories. One of those past customs called for a mean pitcher, someone about 35 with a slight bulge around the middle and a riser that started at a batter's knees and threatened to grab his Adam's apple as it flew past high and tight.

But Jackson, Roberts Skyline's 36-year-old chucker, just doesn't fit the mold. No cap, no scowl, like so many of the good old boys. LeRoy Carlson from Sioux City, Dutch Elbers from Minneapolis and the Ferris brothers from Sioux Falls and Fargo, they played their legends to the hilt. Bring on the Young Turks, itching for a palace coup, armed with their lanky legs and big bats. The old-timers, those guys who were still chucking away at age 35 or beyond, local guys such as Jackson, Patu Ude, Lefty Sheary, Norm Weideman and Al Lewis, seem to stand on their flat little mound challenging everyone to play King on the Mountain. Bring your big sticks, you young boys flocking to play our game. We'll see who comes out on top.

But for all the potential rivalry in the war of the generations that takes place between the mound and the batter's box, the elders can't help but be pleased by the recent batch of young players who have infiltrated the ranks.

Jackson, a mainstay in Roberts' three state champion teams since 1963, explains that "As long as these young guys keep coming up, there's bound to be some good pitchers. But it does take time to develop. At least now you see kids playing around throwing a ball underhand. You never used to see that before. They always had a baseball in their hands."

Pitching, something that may be in thin supply locally when the old guard begins to feel the kinks and stiff tendons even more, will require that "some of these kids start messing around with the ball and find out that they can throw it."

In the meantime, the pitching chores are in pretty good hands with guys like Jackson holding up the dice.

Take Jackson's recent third win in city play as a case in point. Citizens State Bank, one of the youngest teams in Triple-A with 400-plus hitters such as Lyle Hight, former Nebraska Wesleyan athlete, brought out its Kiddle Korps to take on one of those old men. Even Jackson sounded a little awed by the size of the enemy. "Look at that outfield. Those guys must average at least 6-1. You're really got to be careful because if they ever hit one . . ."

And one of them did. The first man up, to be exact, a little guy named Frank Soich, who rapped one out to the fence and ran like a scared quarterback, all the way around for an inside-the-park home run.

"Yea, I really grooved one, didn't I?" Jackson winced between innings.

But no problem. Back out for the second and begin the methodical dance all over again. The head goes down a notch; grind the ball into the mitt, toe the rubber, hard, then dig in; now the arm, like a big windmill, cranks into motion for the millionth time, up and around while striding with the left foot.

The result: Anything from a 90 mile an hour or better rise pitch to a diving dropball. But the ballet is always the same, smooth and quick, no pawing or strutting on the mound. The machine may be getting older, but when the weather's good and hot, so is the arm.

"I'm a slow starter in the season and in most games," Jackson said in the fifth after his fifth straight strikeout. "When you start getting old and out of shape, the hot weather keeps you loose."

By the seventh frame he was breezing along with a four-run lead. But a let-up in the stretch run was out of the question.

"Go out and get 'em, a real quick inning, Johnny," coach Jack Krumm called at the start of the seventh.

A floating change-up third strike on the last man and Jackson had bridged the generation gap with 14 understanding strikeouts. Not bad for a guy who doesn't even look like a softball pitcher.

—IN THE MONEY EIGHT OF NINE SHOWINGS— Pepper Man Snares Feature Triumph

Omaha—Pepper Man a 3-year-old, gelding breezed to its third win of the season in the $6,000 allowance feature at Ak-Sar-Ben Tuesday.

Trevino Won't Follow Jack's Pacing Advice

... TOUR SLOW DOWN OUT OF QUESTION

Cleveland (AP) — Newly-crowned United States Open champion Lee Trevino doesn't plan on heeding Jack Nicklaus' advice to slow down — at least not for a while.

"I'll play 'em all, whether they're for $50,000 or $250,000. It doesn't matter to me. If they've got a golf tournament going, I'll be there. If they're putting up the money, I'll play on a gravel road," Trevino said Tuesday before a practice round at the Beechmont Country Club.

Trevino, although again in possession of the golf world's most prized title, doesn't plan on taking any time off for several weeks. Most winners of the U.S.

Open title take a few weeks off after their triumph to come back to earth.

Not Trevino.

He beat Nicklaus, probably the most feared competitor in the game today, in the 18-hole playoff at Ardmore, Pa. Monday afternoon. Tuesday morning put in an appearance at a department store in Cleveland, then got back to work on the golf course Tuesday afternoon.

He's competing in the $150,000 Cleveland Open this week, next week will be in Montreal for the Canadian Open, then whips off to Southport, England for the British Open, then back immediately for the Western Open in Chicago.

He doesn't plan a week off until sometime in August.

He's played 20 tournaments out of a maximum of 24 — and missed a couple because of the illness of his mother and withdrew from two others for the same reason.

In those 20 he has been in the top ten finishers 12 times, hasn't missed a cut, won three, lost in a playoff and missed first place in four others by a total of five strokes.

He's the leading money winner with $165,110 and tops the Vardon Trophy standings as the man with the best stroke average on the tour.

The stocky, swarthy guy who stalked out of poverty and obscurity when he won the 1968 Open, capped it all when he joined that exclusive club of players who have taken two national open titles.

Trevino, whose quick wit, non-stop chatter and earthy humor have made him a favorite with this country's golfing millions, said the victory at Ardmore meant more to him than his first Open title.

"Mr. Walter Hagen said it," Trevino explained. "He said, 'anybody can win an open. But it takes a great player to win two'."

"Trevino has been playing the tour, what, five years," Nicklaus said. "He's the same age I am — 31. But I've been playing tournament golf since I was 13 — almost 20 years. I've been playing on the tour since I was 18."

Lee is different. He hasn't played that much. Right now he's like a kid a few years out of college, 26 or 27 — it's go, go, go.

"But in a couple of years he'll have to learn to pace himself or he'll burn himself out."

Trevino, however, has no immediate plans in that direction.

"I'm the U.S. champion," he said. "I think people want to watch me play. I'm going to play in as many tournaments as I possibly can. I'm dedicated to golf and want to do something for the game — put back in it some of the things it has given me."

"The sponsors seem to want me to play. They think I help them at the gate. That's fine. I'll play."

"I play every day anyhow. Even if I'm taking some time off, I'm out there beating balls every day."

Open Victory Gives Trevino Money Lead

New York (AP) — Lee Trevino's playoff victory over Jack Nicklaus in the U.S. Open not only earned him that coveted golf title but also moved him into first place among golf's money winners for the year.

Trevino has earned $165,110 so far and is about $4,000 ahead of Nicklaus according to figures released Tuesday by the Professional Golfers Association Tournament Players Division.

The top money winners:

1. Lee Trevino, $165,110. 2. Jack Nicklaus, $161,213. 3. Gary Player, $119,165. 4. Arnold Palmer, $117,339. 5. Billye Jean King, $117,339. 6. Tom Shaw, $85,391. 7. Gene Littler, $84,685. 8. George Archer, $77,775. 9. Frank Beard, $76,474. 10. Billy Casper, $67,144.

The point leaders:

1. Lee Trevino, 162,508 points. 2. Jack Nicklaus, 159,907. 3. Gary Player, 117,789. 4. Miller Barber, 95,195. 5. Gene Littler, 92,583. 6. Frank Beard, 73,267. 7. George Archer, 72,273. 8. Arnold Palmer, 65,252. 9. Hubert Green, 60,997. 10. J.C. Snead, 60,986. 6.

Losing At Baseball No Fun Says Ted

Washington (AP) — Manager Ted Williams said Tuesday he has no plans to quit the lowly Washington Senators even though the fish are biting at his fishing camp.

"It's a good time to leave," he said. "I called up to my camp and they told me the fish are biting. Ordinarily, this is not a good time."

"I always think about leaving," he continued. "But it's safe to say that unless I get fired I will finish out the year. I'm going to stick it out."

The discussion with Williams, and the fishing at his camp in Mirimichi, New Brunswick, came up before the Senators look on the Baltimore Orioles in a twilight double header.

The Senators are mired in last place in the American League East, 18 games behind the league leading Orioles.

Williams, one of the game's finest hitters, was lured out of retirement three years ago by Washington owner Bob Short to manage the Senators.

"There's no fun in this game unless you keep your head above water," he said. "When you're playing .500 ball, you're just keeping your head up. I'm not having as much fun as I ought to have."

Prior to the doubleheader with Baltimore the Senators had lost 40 games while winning only 23 for a .365 average.

Williams said he enjoyed his first season back in baseball in 1969 after being out of the game 10 years but has been finding it difficult lately.

"Just being back in baseball was fun," said Williams, who played for the Boston Red Sox from 1939 through 1960 and is the last man to hit over .400. "Last year, I was up in the clouds because I thought we could do better but we didn't."

The Senators finished fourth during Williams' first year but dropped to sixth last season.

"We're going through an upsetting period right now," said Williams. "We're trying to go with youth. When you do it that way, you've got to expect a lot of games like last night. That was the worst game I've seen in three years. It was terrible."

The Orioles beat the Senators 7-2 Monday night with several of the younger players, including right fielder Larry Bittner and shortstop Toby Harrah, making mental errors that enabled runs to score.

Los Angeles Dodgers say they'll have to do without catcher Duke Sims and shortstop Maury Wills for at least a few days.

It was revealed Tuesday that Wills was sent to bed with a back injury suffered in Philadelphia two weeks ago. Sims has been treated for a strained neck.

Dr. Frank Jobe, the team physician, said he wasn't sure how long either would be out.

Farmers and ranchers waiting to hunt deer and antelope on their own land this fall can be certain of getting a permit if they apply before June 30, according to the Game and Parks Commission.

Chicago Paper Claims Rusk Knew Coup Set

Chicago (UPI) — The Chicago Sun-Times published in its Wednesday edition what it called top secret State Department documents showing that former secretary of state Dean Rusk had advanced warning of the 1963 coup which toppled South Vietnamese President Ngo Dinh Diem.

The copyrighted Sun-Times story said Rusk was warned by Roger Hilsman, assistant secretary for the Far East, two months before the coup that Diem might move to open neutralizing negotiations with North Vietnam.

Morton Kondracke and Thomas B. Ross of the newspaper's Washington bureau said Hilsman recommended the United States encourage and assist a coup against Diem. The Sun-Times correspondents said Hilsman also recommended that if North Vietnam threatened to intervene on Diem's side, the United States should let it (North Vietnam) know unequivocally that we shall hit the DRV (North Vietnam) with all that is necessary to force it to desist."

New Disclosures

Portions of the document, dated Aug. 30, 1963, were printed with the story. The newspaper said the State Department documents dealt with the critical Kennedy period not yet covered by other disclosures on the top secret Pentagon history of the Vietnam war.

It said the documents were turned over to the newspaper by the Citizens Commission of Inquiry into U.S. War Crimes in Vietnam.

We should warn the coup group to press any military advantage it gains to its logical conclusion without stopping to negotiate," Hilsman was quoted as saying.

The assistant secretary was also quoted as urging the U.S. to intervene by jamming Diem's radio communications with his armed forces.

Unconditional surrender should be the terms for the NGO family," Hilsman was quoted as saying.

President Kennedy and his administration denied any involvement after the coup, which came on Nov. 1. Diem was assassinated.

Other Recommendations

The Sun-Times said Hilsman's memo recommended that if Diem decided to flee Vietnam, the United States should agree to provide him with a plane — but only if he agreed to go to France or another European country.

Under no circumstances should the Nhus be permitted to remain in Southeast Asia in close proximity to Vietnam because of the plots they will try to mount to regain power," the newspaper quoted the memo as saying.

Hilsman was quoted as urging Rusk to resist any arrangement whereby Diem might appeal to French President Charles de Gaulle for political support for neutralization of Vietnam.

"We should point out publicly that Vietnam cannot be effectively neutralized unless the Communists are removed from control of North Vietnam," he said, according to the newspaper.

"Once an anti-Diem coup is started in South Vietnam, we can point to the obvious refusal of South Vietnam to accept a Diem-Communist coalition," he was quoted as saying.

WITNESS

Col. Wilson Freeman, staff judge advocate for the 3rd U.S. Army, is one of several high ranking officers yet to be called in the pre-trial hearing of Capt. Ernest Medina, who faces court-martial in the 1968 My Lai incident. He and his attorney, F. Lee Bailey, are trying to prove command influence in the hearings at Ft. McPherson, Ga.

Rep. Gonzalez Hits Sharp's Light Sentence

Washington (UPI) — Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez, D-Tex., charged Tuesday the Justice Department arranged a lighter sentence for "the principal wheeler dealer" in a Texas banking scandal as a means of protecting a high department official.

In remarks inserted in the congressional record, Gonzalez said Texas banker Frank Sharp was allowed to plead guilty and receive a $5,000 fine and three years probation because Assistant Attorney General Will Wilson was once his attorney in Texas, and there was a possibility of embarrassment or prosecution of Wilson if Sharp was fully prosecuted.

Wilson called the Gonzalez statement "entirely false."

The Justice Department said earlier Sharp was allowed the lighter sentence because he could furnish information that would be helpful in tracking down others involved in the scandal.

Wilson, head of the criminal division of the Justice Department, disqualified himself from acting in the Sharp case. He said all the negotiations concerning Sharp were handled without him.

Gonzalez charged that Deputy Attorney General Richard G. Kleindienst "arranged the deal with Sharp to protect his immediate subordinate, Wilson."

Northern Gas Kansas' Suit Protests Tax

Wichita, Kan. (AP) — Northern Natural Gas Co. of Omaha, Neb., has filed suit in federal court at Wichita, charging that $3 million of its 1969 and 1970 Kansas property tax assessments resulted from constructive fraud and discrimination.

Named as defendants are 38 county treasurers in Kansas, State Valuation Director Ronald Dwyer and several other state officers.

Northern is owner and operator of a pipeline which runs under the 38 counties.

The suit alleges that Northern's property in Kansas was singled out for an unduly high valuation, in violation of a state law which provides for uniform assessments.

Northern appealed its 1969 valuation of $67.5 million and its 1970 valuation of $73.9 million, but they were upheld by the State Board of Tax Appeals.

The company said it paid more than $5 million in taxes for 1969 and the first half of 1970. About $2.7 million was paid under protest and is impounded by the county treasurers pending outcome of legal actions.

Leaves Hospital

Sydney (UPI) — Mrs. Geraldine Brodrick, the 29-year-old Canberra socialite who gave birth to nine children June 13, was discharged from the hospital. Two of the babies in the record births were still-born and the remaining seven died over six days.

Celebration of Life' Rock Festival Promoters, Officials Reach Compromise

McCrea, La. (AP) Local officials and promoters of the "Celebration of Life" rock festival reached a compromise agreement on health and sanitation regulations Tuesday and the start of the event was rescheduled for Wednesday evening.

Thousands of young people, undaunted by conflicting reports of off a site leuised beside Lake Pontchartrain, a few miles above New Orleans.

Festival goers converged on the McCrea area and stubbornly stayed there, despite one announcement by the promoters that the event had been cancelled.

The crowd wouldn't leave and the court fight was resumed.

U.S. District Judge E. Gordon West ordered both sides to discuss the question and the compromise resulted.

Farmers did a brisk business in watermelons, a source of liquid refreshment for thirsty rock lovers. One young man said "electric watermelon," which he said was spiked with LSD.

NO, TRYING TO DECIDE WHETHER OLD AGE IS CREEPING UP ON ME...

OR YOUTH IS RUNNING AWAY.

DONALD DUCK by Walt Disney

GOT A CRICK IN YOUR BACK?

RIGHT!

PLANNING SOME BIG DEAL?

NO, TRYING TO DECIDE WHETHER OLD AGE IS CREEPING UP ON ME...

OR YOUTH IS RUNNING AWAY.

DID YOU KNOW THIS? IT'S A FACT:

A United Nations project in Western Samoa has brought hope for threatened palm trees in Malaysia.

When Arkansas seceded from the Union on May 6, 1861, the action was approved by a vote of 9 to 1.

Johann Gutenberg unveiled his metal type in Strassburg in 1440.

Oil from the palm tree is used in making soaps, shampoos, detergents, margarine, medicines, synthetic rubber, brake fluid for planes and plasticizers for safety glass.

In 1936 mail carriers were allowed two cents for each letter and one cent for each newspaper they delivered.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is six or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you.
